RAGING DUST STORM HITS WHEAT CROPS

A driving blizzard, sweeping over the north central states from the Arctic regions, extended its force eastward and westward today and sheathed half the nation with crippling ice and snow.

Mishaps caused by floods in the middlewest and near zero temperatures and drifts throughout the Great Lakes region led to at least six deaths in three states.

The blizzard, centered across the upper Michigan peninsula, spent its fury westward into Wisconsin and Iowa. Winds reaching a velocity of 50 miles an hour piled 30-foot drifts across highways in Michigan and isolated hundreds of families.

Flood Waters Freeze
Additional suffering was caused by freezing flood waters in Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa. In the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles and western Kansas, raging dust storms uprooted winter wheat fields. Through the south, frost and high winds threatened dam-

KENNEDY SEES NEED OF NEW LABOR PLAN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(UP)—Chairman Joseph B. Kennedy of the U. S. Maritime Commission told the Senate labor and commerce committees today that union opposition had failed to make belief that a new method for handling maritime labor problems is necessary.

Kennedy urged a plan for establishing arbitration machinery similar to that in effect for railroad labor. The proposal has been opposed by maritime unions. "Any development in American ship building hereafter will have to be with federal assistance," Kennedy said.

Henderson Warns Against 'Caller'

Santa Ana school officials this afternoon repudiated any purported connection with a young man who today was described making calls at residences, offering a course in music and instruments in accordance with the regular school curriculum.

"We want the public to know," Frank Henderson, city superintendent, warned this afternoon, after receiving word of the activity, "that the schools have absolutely no connection with this matter, and has not sent anyone to offer such a course."

F.D.R. BOOMED FOR 3RD TERM

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(UP)—Local unions from three states today presented eight resolutions urging that President Roosevelt be drafted for a third term to the 35th convention of the United Mine Workers of America.

Scores of resolutions from locals of John L. Lewis's own organization urged greater efforts to re-unite the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization. Other resolutions however, endorsed the C.I.O.'s position in peace negotiations with the federation.

Seek Referendum
One resolution, presented by a Hanan, Wyo., local, demanded a rank and file referendum before further UMWA funds are expended in the CIO drive. UMWA auditors reported yesterday the miners loaned CIO groups at least $1,200,000 between June 1 and Nov. 30, 1937.

ROAD PLANNING IS DEBATED BY GROUP

The county planning commission today gave informal approval to the proposal for marginal zoning of Manchester avenue, to prevent indiscriminate commercial development along that thoroughfare, when it accepted the report of its planning consultant, L. Deming Tilton, on the project.

The voluminous report covers every phase of zoning, and would apply to Manchester avenue from its junction with 101 highway at Miraflores, through the city of Anaheim to the county line beyond Buena Park.

Proposals for other traffic arteries, including a Huntington Beach-Santa Ana cutoff, were discussed but no action was taken.

Spending the past week in Washington, D. C., as a delegate to the National Conference on the Cause and Cure of War, Mrs. Mae Geeting, Santa Ana, has twice been the guest of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt at tea in the White House.

On one occasion she was entertained at the White House on a personal invitation from Mrs. Roosevelt. On the second occasion she attended a tea given all delegates to the conference by Mrs. Roosevelt.

Mrs. Geeting arrived in Washington, D. C., on Jan. 15 and two days later was notified by Congressman Harry Sheppard that Mrs. Roosevelt was sending her an invitation to tea on the following day.

The conference opened the following day, Jan. 18, and on Thursday closing day for the conference Mrs. Roosevelt entertained all delegates at tea and was the principal speaker at the banquet in the evening. In her talk Mrs. Roosevelt delivered a clear-cut denunciation of the isolationist theory.

Sent as a Y. W. C. A. delegate representing the Women's Council, Mrs. Geeting will return to Santa Ana Saturday and will submit reports of the conference to the various women's organizations represented in the Council.

WOMAN NEAR DEATH IN GAS EXPLOSION

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., Jan. 26.—(UP)—An explosion of natural gas which filled her home here last night caused near-fatal burns to Mrs. Leona McKnight. Hospital attendants reported her condition as critical.

The ignited gas set fire to Mrs. McKnight's clothing and she was severely burned before the flames were smothered with a blanket by her husband, C. E. McKnight, who was not in the house when the explosion occurred.

Investigators said a leak in a gas pipe may have filled the house with the gas which was set off by the spark of a cigarette lighter.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 26.—(UP)—Twenty-five cleaning women, working on a WPA project, scoured knobs and ornamental fittings at the county courthouse until they glistened like brass. Today, a second WPA project was announced, to restore the coating of bronze plate the industrious women rubbed off.

14 NEEDED GRENAD BLAST

PARIS, Jan. 26.—(UP)—A case of hand grenades, seized at a secret headquarters of the terrorist "Hooded Men" organization, exploded today in the midst of a group of soliders.

Police estimated that 14 men were killed and searched for more bodies.

Police in a raid January 16 seized 600 hand grenades, in 18 cases 20,000 cartridges, three Hotchkiss machine guns and 71 automatic rifles at a secret cache of the Hooded Men, on Cagoulards, near the St. Nazaire station.

"Too Dangerous"

The bombs were taken to an annex of the municipal laboratory in the suburb of Villejuif in southeastern Paris, because it was thought too dangerous to keep them in central Paris.

Municipal authorities of Villejuif protested that the entire suburb was endangered by the bombs and demanded their removal.

This morning soldiers arrived in army trucks to take the bombs to the artillery proving grounds at Vincennes so that the fuses could be removed.

Dropped Case
The soldiers began removing the bomb cases from wooden shacks of the annex. One detail dropped a case, believed to contain 32 bombs. The bombs exploded. The four soldiers who were carrying the case and others nearby were killed.

Shacks in which the bombs were stored were destroyed, as were shacks nearby in which poor families lived. Police feared that additional victims would be found in the ruins.

OPEN VERDICT IS GIVEN IN DROWNING

Unable to determine the exact cause of Ray C. Hammond's recent death, a coroner's jury today at Dixon funeral chapel, Huntington Beach, returned an open verdict.

The body of Hammond, 45, Westminister, was recovered from rocks of the jetty at the mouth of the Santa Ana river, last Saturday. The body showed no signs that indicated Hammond might have been slain, officers said.

"Mr. Hammond's death was accidental, homicidal or suicidal and the jury is unable to determine from the evidence which it was," the jury held.

SHIPS RUSH TO AID STRICKEN VESSELS

BOSTON, Jan. 26.—(UP)—Rescue vessels sped to the aid of two ships in distress in the gale-lashed North Atlantic today.

The Coast Guard cutter Cayuga was ordered from Provincetown, Mass., to aid the steam trawler Ripple, adrift with a crew of 29 men 50 miles east of Provincetown. The vessel sent an "SOS" yesterday, rescinded it last night, but sent a second one early today.

The sea-going tug Foundation put out from Halifax, N. S., to aid the British freighter Pencarrow, adrift with a damaged propeller about 110 miles south of Halifax. The Pencarrow canceled an "SOS" after her master who had been notified that the Foundation was enroute.

A boiler leak first disabled the Ripple, and she drifted for about 27 hours while the coast guard sought to aid her. She reported last night that the leak had been repaired, and that she was proceeding to Georges Bank fishing ground.

AMBULANCE DRIVER HURT IN COLLISION

Harold Grauel, manager of the Dixon chapel at Costa Mesa, suffered cuts and bruises at 10 o'clock this morning, when the ambulance he was driving turned over after a collision with a car driven by Miguel Perez, 28, of Norwalk, at the intersection of Harbor boulevard and West street in Costa Mesa. Perez, whose car is said to have struck the rear of the ambulance, was not hurt.

Grauel, who was on his way to Huntington Beach on a call to take a patient to Norwalk, received first aid treatment, then called another ambulance and continued on to Huntington Beach.

The accident was investigated by Horace Inge, member of the California Highway patrol.

U. S. LEADS ENTIRE WORLD IN EXPORTS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(UP)—The commerce department announced today that U. S. foreign trade—exports and combined—increased $1,500,000,000 in 1937 over 1936.

Exports during the year totaled $3,316,000,000 an increase of $390,000,000 over 1936.

Imports totaled $3,034,000,000 a gain of $661,000,000 over 1936. This country continued to be the world's leading exporter, the commerce department said, accounting for 13 per cent of all world exports compared with 11.9 per cent in 1936.

The favorable trade balance of the United States—that is, the value of exports over imports—was $229,000,000.

NIAGARA BRIDGE IS BROKEN UP BY ICE

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 26.—(UP)—The Falls View bridge, spanning the Niagara river 1000 feet below the mighty cataracts, began breaking up today under the pressure of the worst ice jam in history.

The ice jam carried the structure slowly downstream. The bridge had been closed to traffic earlier when it began to buckle in the center.

As the jam grew larger, the steel arches of the bridge began to give way. The ice pack reached a height of approximately 70 feet.

May "Prime Pump"

The President accompanied statement with an intimation that new pump priming expenditure would be necessary if business changes this winter and spring. He declared that the administration will be forced to adopt policies increase national purchasing power if wage cuts become general. Roper said invitations to the business session will be sent to persons who have written President Roosevelt suggesting a meeting with administration officials to formulate a recovery program which would take into consideration the "little fellow" in business and industry.

Seek Cross Section

Roper said additional invitation will go to other representatives small business so that the conference may provide a cross section all industry.

He indicated hope that the conference would include persons representing small town banking, utilities, consumer goods and foods, distribution, transportation, fuel, heavy goods, consumer and consumer goods, lumber, retailing, wholesaling, specialties and industrial research.

Roper said generally speaking the small business men represent firms whose total gross sales for the year is less than $1,000,000.

Plan Committee

Roper plans to address the opening meeting, after which a temporary chairman will be appointed. Then, if the conferees wish, they may organize and appoint a permanent chairman. The chairman will name 10 or 12 men as a special committee to study with Roper and Assistant Secretary of Commerce Ernest G. Draper, the problems and suggestions discussed at the conference. Then a digest of their views and recommendations would be submitted to President Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt's wages-prices remarks drew various reaction from members of congress.

House Minority Leader Bertrand H. Snell, R. N. Y., said that "no one wants to cut wages."

"Since the administration has forced the average business man to pay out all his profits," said Snell, "he hasn't any money on hand to build up stocks. Now from a practical standpoint, if the president knows how to do it, I wish he'd tell us."

Rep. John J. O'Connor, D. N. Y., took issue with the president, noting that "prosperity generally requires good prices."

At one time, the tea plant was grown experimentally in South Carolina, but it did not become profitable because the labor cost there was so much higher than in the Orient.

He urged welfare department officials to "pay as little attention to technicalities as possible." He said additional funds would be made available immediately for relief.

ICE, SNOW BLANKET HALF OF NATION

Winds endangered shipping on the Atlantic. MacKay radio reported a distress call from the British freighter Panacarrow in the Atlantic about 60 miles off Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Although the cold brought new hardships to families forced to flee lowland homes in the tri-state flood area, it ended temporarily the danger of more serious overflows.

Fifty children were marooned by snowdrifts in a high school five miles from Ironwood, Mich. Near Marquette, Mich., other children were reported taking refuge in a farmhouse after their school bus was trapped by rising snows.

U.S. Forecaster C. A. Donnel predicted a "severe" cold wave for the entire midwest. The storm was centered over northern Lake Huron and was moving slowly. He forecast continued snowstorms in all northern states from the Mississippi to the Atlantic seaboard.

At Lansing, Mich., Gov. Frank Murphy expressed alarm as he received reports of the storm's fury—marooning lake ships and automobiles, isolating farms and villages, forcing shutdown of schools and mines.

"We must not permit this to become a catastrophe," he said. "The main thing is to get some help. Mobilize anything and everything."

He urged welfare department officials to "pay as little attention to technicalities as possible." He said additional funds would be made available immediately for relief.

sions, under these four boards, was a highlight of the session. He recommended that of the $8,000,000 budget proposed for the United States this year, the Los Angeles presbytery assume a quota of $112,487, which would represent an increase of ten per cent over last year's quota.

The presbytery voted to join a new organization called the Protestant Welfare Federation of Los Angeles, embracing protestant welfare agencies, and named two delegates, the Rev. Herbert Booth Smith and Dr. William E. Roberts, both of Los Angeles. The organization includes not less than five denominations and 20 welfare agencies.

Dr. E. Graham Wilson, general secretary of the Presbyterian Board of National Missions, addressed a group on the three current policies of the board, which he classified as (1) "No new work to be assumed until we can do the old work better, including better pay for missionaries, who have been increased 10 per cent during the last two years; (2) To keep home mission buildings in better repair; (3) to increase the practice of comity with other denominations in over-church communities, and to emphasize the place of the church in the community.

Dr. Wilson explained that the Presbyterians have formed agreement with seven different denominations during the last two years, through which 200 overlapping churches have been eliminated or combined, one denomination yielding the field to another.

The place of schools and hospitals have heretofore been emphasized now it is the turn of the church, said the speaker.

At the afternoon session, the Rev. William Ehmann, representing the San Francisco Theological Seminary, reported that during the past month $4581 had been contributed to the support of the seminary by churches of the Los Angeles presbytery.

S. A. BUSINESS LEADERS PLAN CITY'S FUTURE

Members of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce will hold an informal public conference with the recently elected board of directors at noon Monday at a luncheon to be served in American Legion hall, Howard I. Wood, secretary of the organization, announced today.

The luncheon will be served by members of the Legion Auxiliary and reservations must be made by Monday morning, Wood said. The luncheon will be open to all business and professional people in the city.

The program will be an open forum discussion of plans and policies of the chamber and matters vitally affecting the development of Santa Ana and Orange county.

Fred Merker, president of the chamber, will preside during the dinner and introduce directors. N. H. Hilton, assayer and chemist, will lead a discussion on the possibility of reviving mining as a county industry. E. M. Sundquist will discuss the problem of auto parking and downtown traffic control.

Transportation and the possibility of a more direct route to Huntington Beach also will be discussed. Wood said another important matter to be brought before the members will be a request for approval of the program outlined by the "What Helps Business" committee of the chamber. A sub-committee of this group recently outlined a program which was approved yesterday by the committee as a whole. Details of the program will be outlined the first time at the luncheon meeting.

Wood said that, in addition to the subjects already outlined for discussion, other suggestions from members of the organization will be welcomed and discussed.

TWO IN HOSPITAL AFTER ACCIDENTS

Two persons were being treated at Orange county hospital today for injuries received yesterday, one in a traffic accident, the other in an accident at the Orange Union high school grounds.

Cecil Mikeseil, 32, 315 Juliana street, Anaheim, suffered the loss of two fingers of his right hand and a toe of his right foot about 6:30 p. m. yesterday when his motorcycle and a car operated by Shirley Bremer, 24, Anaheim, collided, officials reported. Mikeseil assertedly had been drinking.

Arthur Burton, 16, 151 North Shaffer street, Orange, suffered a compound fracture of the right arm above the elbow, about 2:30 p. m. yesterday, when he fell down a set of steps at the high school building.

SANTA ANITA FUTURE BOOK PLAY $60,000

AGUA CALINTE—(UP)—The handle on Gene Normile's future book on the Santa Anita Handicap, with the event still more than a month distant, today passed the $60,000 mark.

Normile expressed confidence that before the book is closed the handle will exceed the amount of the purse in the big race—$100,000.

Seabiscuit continued to rule as favorite at 4 to 1 although money continued to pour in on Pompoon, forcing the price down to 7 to 1.

Heefly, Amor Brujo, Aneroid, Calumet Dick and Whickee also are getting a heavy play.

Court Notes

Thomas A. Allen, Santa Ana, yesterday petitioned superior court for letters of administration over the estate of his late wife, Lucy Allen, who died December 21, leaving a $1500 estate consisting of real estate occupied by two cottages, at Eighth and Fairlawn streets, Santa Ana. The property is community property, according to Allen, who is sole heir.

Public Administrator E. R. Abbey has filed a petition with superior court for letters of administration over the estate of the late Blanche W. Steele, who died in Santa Ana January 18. The estate consists of $1176 in a savings account at Wilmington, Delaware.

FOUR MEN, ADRIFT OFF COUNTY COAST, SAVED AFTER 15 HOURS

After having drifted hopelessly in the open sea for more than 15 hours in a 28-foot fishing boat, a mile and a half off the Orange county coastline Sunday four Los Angeles men today were recovering from the effects of the harrowing experience, it was revealed this morning.

The four men, H. K. Clinton, Dent Reed, James Long, and Billie Butts, pilot of the boat, started out Sunday in the expectation of a quiet day's fishing.

Huddle Under Blanket
Having concluded their fishing for the day, they turned their frail craft toward their home port of San Pedro.

Shortly before 5 p. m. the motor of the boat failed, leaving the anglers drifting, and helplessness darkness fell. Huddling under the one blanket the boat afforded, the quartet shivered under the chill of

HOLLYWOOD PERSONALITIES SET FOR POLIO DANCE TOMORROW

Arrangements have been completed that guarantee the personal appearance of outstanding Hollywood personalities tomorrow night for the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation benefit dance to be held at Valencia Ballroom on 101 Highway.

Lee Mann, director of the Sunny Californians dance orchestra, and in charge of arrangements, said a special escort will be sent to Hollywood for Dixie Dunbar, the Three Peters Sisters and the song-writing team of Lew Pollack and Sidney Mitchell.

These famous "name" stars will sing and dance during the evening on a special stage that will not interfere with dancing, Mann said.

The dance is scheduled to start promptly at 9 p. m. and the ballroom box office will open at 8:45 p. m. Funds derived through the dance will be turned over to the Orange county committee in charge of the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation fund campaign. This committee is headed by Fred Merker, president of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce.

VETERANS HEAR RITES THURSDAY TALK ON TAXES

Paul J. Lichtenfels, Los Angeles, discussing "Taxation," was the speaker last night at the pot-luck dinner meeting of members of Calumet Camp and Auxiliary of the United Spanish War Veterans, in Knights of Columbus hall.

Lichtenfels urged support of a Constitutional amendment appearing on the November ballot to provide for ear marking the State Sales Tax for State Security pensions.

He also read a copy of a resolution adopted by the San Francisco county board of supervisors urging Gov. Frank F. Merriam to exert every effort in having sales tax money applied to Old Age Relief, in order that the burden be removed from general property taxpayers of California.

Threat Is Cited
This resolution, he said, has also been adopted by supervisors of Los Angeles, Tuolumne, Riverside, Plumas, Glenn, Sonoma, Santa Clara, Monterey, Merced, San Joaquin, Stanislaus, Humboldt, Butte and Napa counties.

Declaring that taxes in 42 of the 58 counties in California have increased from 2 to 32 per cent, Lichtenfels said that Del Norte county already has ceased paying Old Age Relief and other counties are threatening to follow the same plan.

Commander Albert P. Dresser, Calumet camp and Mrs. Louella Randel, president of the Auxiliary, were honor guests at the dinner. Each of the honor guests received an individual birthday cake as their anniversaries were celebrated this month.

BEET GROWERS DISCUSS WAGES

Further reverberations in the agriculture-labor difficulties sounded today as Walter J. Pollard, chairman of the Southern California Beet Growers association, and Lucas Lucio, spokesman for the beet workers' group, prepared to attend a hearing before the Agricultural Adjustment Administration tomorrow in Los Angeles.

The hearing, affecting approximately 1000 beet workers in the county, is one of a series of 12 being conducted by the administration in domestic sugar beet areas, on labor rates and grower-processor contracts.

Discuss Wage Rates
Evidence will be received on wage rates to be paid to employees on farms with respect to which applications for conditional payments are made; rates to be paid by processors and the terms and conditions of grower-processor contracts.

The Sugar Act of 1937 provides as one of the conditions of payments to growers, that all persons employed on farms in the production, cultivation, or harvesting of sugar beets shall have been paid wages at rates not less than those that may be determined by the secretary of agriculture to be fair and reasonable.

The act also provides for a determination by the secretary on "fair and reasonable" rates to be paid for sugar beets purchased by processors who apply as producers for payments under the act. Testimony will also be taken at the hearings on the terms and conditions of grower-processor contracts.

Mother Asks Aid In Hunt For Son

Pete Radinoff, 35, former janitor at Orange county hospital, was being sought today by sheriff's officers at request of his mother, resident of San Francisco.

According to Police Chief William J. Quinn, San Francisco, to Sheriff Logan Jackson, Mrs. Radinoff last heard from her son six years ago. He is described as five feet, five inches tall, weighing 140 pounds, having brown eyes, light brown hair and two or three fingers missing. According to hospital officials, Radinoff, a short time after leaving the hospital's employ about two years ago, made an unsuccessful suicide attempt.

Bandit Gets 'Even Break' With Jury

Earl Ira Morgan, Irvine cafe bandit, was convicted of one robbery count and freed of another by a jury in Superior Judge G. K. Scovel's court late yesterday.

Morgan was found guilty of second degree robbery on the count charging him with a $27 hold-up in the cafe last Christmas eve. He was acquitted of the charge that he took $1 from a service station attendant outside of the cafe.

Morgan had been accompanied, at the time, by a 16-year-old hitchhiker, upon whom he laid the blame for the robbery.

TRADE GROUPS PLAN DRIVE ON ORANGE SALES

Plans for a national sales drive on oranges are now under way by retail trade groups, it was announced by Bruce McDaniel, general manager of the Mutual Orange Distributors. McDaniel returned several days ago from a trip to New York and other major markets in the east, and from the convention of the fruit and vegetable groups in New Orleans. In the eastern cities he conferred with various leaders of retail groups.

Campaign Outlined

The tentative plan is to have an intensive sales campaign, especially pointed to citrus fruits, in the many thousands of retail stores throughout the nation, during various weeks in the near future.

"Through conference with representatives of retail groups, arrangements are being made to move this additional volume by special sales," McDaniel said. "Each of these sales, properly scheduled and advertised, will stimulate both volume and price."

The most encouraging fact in the whole economic condition is that the buying power exists, and the buying urge can be revitalized within a comparatively short time if proper steps are taken to arouse it. There is no surplus of basic manufactured products, or of basic farm crops, except perhaps some grains and cotton, comparable to that prior to the last major economic break; also, there is growing a better understanding between business and the government.

Council Aids Move

"To encourage generally this forward movement, such national groups as the National Cooperative council are making specific recommendations. Among these are constructive suggestions pointing to awakening this latent urge to buy, and to tie in closely the producers with the distributor throughout the nation."

MEDICAL DATA HITS AT NEW COURT RULES

BY STEVE SNIDER

(United Press Staff Correspondent) CHICAGO—Medical evidence began to pile up today against the new streamlined basketball rules which gave the game its greatest box office boost in history.

While coaches from coast to coast discussed the controversial rule eliminating the center-jump after field goals, Dr. Marcus Hobart of Northwestern disclosed that he had completed experiments purporting to show the new game stimulated heart action of the players to a dangerous degree.

Dr. Hobart, Northwestern's team physician, said he had tested players after two Big Ten games and found "their normal heart-beat of 60 to 90 had increased alarmingly, in one case to 144."

"I'm no heart specialist, but even these sketchy experiments indicate the game is too fast for most boys," he said.

Chief defender of the new code was Ward (Peggy) Lambert, Purdue's "wild fox," who has been coaching the fast break in high schools and colleges for 25 years. Lambert is recognized as the nation's foremost teacher of the firewagon attack.

"It's all a matter of conditioning," Lambert countered. "We bring our boys up in the fast break down in this country and keep them trained to it year after year. Some boys can stand more than others. Ours can stand it easily."

"We questioned my players after each hard game and they all admit they feel no difference. One, our center, says he was far more tired when he had to jump after every basket was scored."

Hobart's findings, however, stirred critics who have said from the start that under the present code speed and stamina count far more than basketball skill.

PAVELKO, BRONCO AGE, INELIGIBLE

SANTA CLARA—(UP)—Charles "Chuck" Pavelko, quarterback, and Orville Hanners, right halfback of the Santa Clara university football team, will be ineligible to compete next season because of scholastic deficiencies, it was disclosed today.

CROWELL FINISHES NESTELL IN SECOND

LOS ANGELES—(UP)—Knock-out by an "unknown," Big Bob Nestell was dropping out of the heavyweight boxing picture today just as spectacularly as he once barged in.

The one-time promising contender for the heavyweight title was knocked out after one minute and 22 seconds of the second round last night by "Chuck" Crowell, a six-foot-five inch giant only a year out of amateur ranks.

Nestell went down in the second from a crashing right cross and a stiff right to the solar plexus. He was counted out and dragged to his corner by his seconds.

Crowell proved he can take it as well as deliver it when Nestell landed a murderous right flush on his jaw in the first round. He shook it off and went back for more.

LITTLE'S 60-FOOT CHIP SHOT IN VAIN

SAN FRANCISCO—(UP)—Lawson Little holed a 60-foot chip shot on the Ingleside public golf course yesterday although he and Harry Cooper lost, two down to Jimmy Thomson and Horton Smith in a best-ball exhibition.

The exhibition served as a tune-up for the Oakland Open tournament which starts Jan. 28 at the Sequoyah course.

SCHMELING TAPERS OFF BOUT TRAINING

HAMBURG—(UP)—Max Schmeling tapered off training today for his "tune-up" match Sunday against Ben Ford of South Africa.

Schmeling, who has remained in strict training since beating Harry Thomas in New last December, is a 6-1 favorite. The former heavyweight champion has planned one more bout before his scheduled title fight with Joe Louis in the United States next June.

Track Clerk Makes $2810 Through Error

SANTA ANITA—"Five tickets on number six," the customer said as the horses came out for the seventh race yesterday.

Lonnie Gray, Santa Anita mutual clerk at the ten dollar straight window on the main line, punched out five tickets, when suddenly he realized that he hit the wrong key.

"Say, these tickets are on number five," yelled the customer, "I want number six."

Gray, his heart heavy with a fifty dollar shortage staring him in the face (the sellers must make up their errors) punched out five more tickets, this time on number six.

"I'm stuck with number five," Gray yelled down the line to the other sellers, but it was close to post-time and none of the customers asked for number five in the closing minutes.

The "off ball" changed, the mutuels locked, and Gray sank back, thinking how long at $6 a day it would take to make up a $50 shortage.

Bright Mark didn't have a chance in the dope, he knew that as he listened to the voice of the announcer over the loudspeaker calling the names of other horses as the race was run. Suddenly in the closing strides of the race, the loudspeaker boomed, "and here comes Bright mark."

Gray jumped like he was shot. Then came the announcer's voice again, "Please hold your pari-mutuel tickets, it's a photo finish."

The two minutes and thirty seconds it took to develop the picture seemed like twenty years to Gray, and then the numbers flashed on the board and No. 5, Bright Mark was the winner. A fraction of a second later, the prices flashed and $114.50 was posted against Bright Mark.

Gray had won $2810 by making a mistake.

T. P. Morgan's Heffly, one of the ranking threats for the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, is an extremely doubtful starter, it was learned today, and he may be officially declared out of the race within the next few days unless he shows a decided improvement in his training.

Heffly was extremely sore after a workout Sunday, and he was "peggy" when he galloped yesterday.

Trainer L. T. Whitehill, who developed Heffly into one of the nation's finest 3-year-olds last year, said, "I am not satisfied with the way he is going, and he is too valuable a horse to take any chances with by training him when he is sore."

Heffly has worked well on several occasions but becomes sore afterward. A number of x-ray pictures have been taken of his left front leg but they revealed nothing, not even a blemish.

Whitehill, one of the shrewdest horsemen in the country, will in no way risk injuring his star, and the chances are that he will withdraw him.

Heffly dead-heated Seabiscuit in the Laurel Stakes in Maryland last year and was the opening second choice in the future books, but has been steadily rising in price in recent weeks.

Amor Brujo, the black champion from South America, has not been sold, as reported elsewhere, but Horace A. Lure, his owner, has had numerous tempting offers for him. Santa Anita debut in an overnight handicap Saturday at one mile and one sixteenth.

Neil McCarthy's Today probably will make his winter bow Friday in a seven furlong allowance race, which suits him perfectly.

Pompoon continues to stop the watches, turned five-eighths in :59, handily, from the gate yesterday.

The Iron Mountain Stable still remains at the top of the money-winning column with $13,015 to its credit, the largest part of it earned by Iron Hills in the $10,000 California-bred stake. The A. C. T. stable has zoomed into second place, while A. C. Compton is third in the standings.

Jockey Burton Thornton was grounded five days by the stewards for rough riding in the fifth race yesterday on Bert T.

HERE AND THERE: Tedious. Alfred Vanderbilt's lone hope in the big race, worked a mile in 1:40 3-5 between races yesterday afternoon, and came back to the stable lane in front. . . . His right front leg was bothering him. . . . T. P. Morgan, Texas sportsman, is an arrival and will remain for the rest of the season. . . . Lizardotti worked a smart five-eighths in 1:30 from the gate yesterday. . . . Whicher, prepping for the seven furlong stake Saturday, went three-quarters in 1:12 3-5, handily. . . . Eddie Smith, contract rider for A. C. Compton, reported on the sick list yesterday. . . . J. G. Wilson, an apprentice, is failing to show much form in his riding these days. . . .

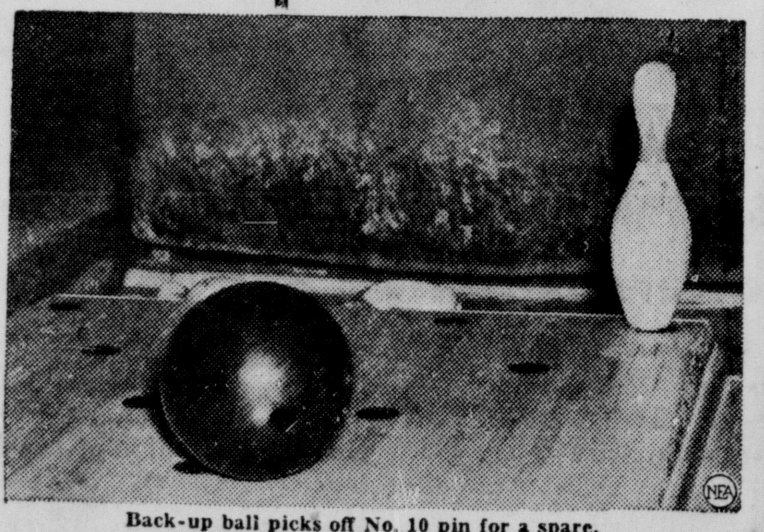

Clingendael leaped into prominence as a first line contender for the seven-furlong stake Saturday when he captured the headliner yesterday afternoon, defeating Bill Farnsworth and Speed to Spare. He ran the six furlongs in 1:10 1-5—one-fifth of a second off the track record, and, incidentally, the fastest six furlongs recorded this season.

Aneroid, making his debut, closed strongly to be fifth, and was going fast at the end.

Mrs. Doty First In Point Tourney

Mrs. Charles Doty rolled up 46 points to take first place in a "tin whistle" tournament at the Santa Ana Country club Tuesday. Mrs. E. E. Baker, 45, and Mrs. J. L. McFadden, 44, placed second and third.

EVEN $100,000 FAILS TO LURE WAR ADMIRAL

BY HENRY McLEMORE

(United Press Staff Correspondent) HOLLYWOOD—War Admiral is a noble steed. In fact, he is a great horse and a sterling representative of the four-legged equine department. His breeding is the equal of anything that ever had oats for a second course, and he undoubtedly would be the first to offer a fetlock to an aged filly crossing the street.

But he isn't the fastest horse in the United States. From furlong pole to furlong pole he can't pick up the weight and tote it along with—Seabiscuit.

That's heresy in the east, and all along the Atlantic seaboard where the sable-coated little son of Man O' War has brought his silks down winking.

But don't brand me as a heretic. Disfigure my forehead with the disfigure my forehead with the scarlet letter.

Because I'm only quoting.

Quoting Howard

I'm only quoting Charley Howard, the quiet San Francisco automobile man who owns Seabiscuit.

Charley Howard loves Seabiscuit. Loved him ever since that day he saw him at Saratoga, in the stables of the late Ogden Mills. Seabiscuit wasn't much to look at then. He still showed the effects of 35 races as a two-year-old. He was a discard, in fact, and Howard picked him up for $7500. Mills looked on Howard's check as a gift.

A year later, when Seabiscuit was the top stake horse in the country, Howard went back to Mills seeking more horses.

He didn't get to first base. Mills said "keep your check book in your pocket, Charley, because after what you've done with the Biscuit I wouldn't sell you a goat for four dollars. Even if the goat lacked antlers and had a bad knee."

Howard told me all these things sitting in his box on the finish line at Santa Anita. It was hard to talk to him, because he was besieged with persons seeking information. Bing Crosby came by. Randolph Scott came by. Pat O'Brien wanted something in the third. So did Victor McLaglen. So did a hundred others.

What's War Admiral?

"I've always wanted to be shot at War Admiral," Howard told me. "We were all ready to race at Pimlico last November, when Al Vanderbilt guaranteed us a fine purse for a match race. But Mr. Riddle didn't see fit to send his horse against us. Then I figured we would have to wait until the Santa Anita Handicap. I couldn't see how any man who thought he had the best horse in the country could refuse to run him for a purse of $100,000."

"But War Admiral isn't here. He is going to run in Florida for half the money that is offered here. That's his business. But I can't help but feel that if a horse is the greatest horse—and I have heard that War Admiral is—he should go for the biggest money in the biggest race."

What Mr. Howard tried to say is this: Nobody is scaring Seabiscuit from the big races. As a great horse he wants to be where the action is hottest. If he isn't good enough to win—well, Mr. Howard wants to take a look at the baby who can lick him.

Confidently, he doesn't think there is anything on four legs that can take the Biscuit from seven furlongs to a mile and a quarter. He'll shoot his roll, too.

When Quist arrived in New York from Finland in 1911, he organized the Finnish-American A. C., which was nothing more than a club and a group of long-winded athletes who beat all the college teams and the pick of the New York Athletic club for years.

No one knows more about conditioning than Hugo Quist.

So it was that when the late Wilhelm Henie first brought his daughter to America as an amateur in 1929, he contacted Quist. He wanted his wonder girl properly trained and needed advice from a financial angle.

Thus it was that Quist had the inside track when Miss Henie turned professional following the Winter Olympics of 1936.

QUIST PUTS SONJA ACROSS

Quist had a number of lean years between Nurmi and Miss Henie. He couldn't raise enough money to bring the Golden Girl of the Silver Skates and her parents to this country.

Madison Square Garden told him that New York had seen her as an amateur. . . . that she no longer merited a booking. But Quist persisted, and finally she was booked to skate before, between periods, and following an amateur hockey game.

The Garden underestimated her drawing power, and when the house was sold out, offered her $500, and told her to quit wasting her time with Quist. Miss Henie so advised Quist, and was told to demand $0 per cent. This she did, with the admonition to Garden officials: "Quit wasting your time with me. See Hugo Quist." She collected $4,000.

Quist literally stuffed Sonja Henie down Hollywood's throat. She was turned down by one of the big outfits after a screen test.

But Quist knew she had it, and

RENO, Nev. — (UP) — Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, star hurler of the New York Yankees, said today he returned unsigned a contract offering him $15,000 to pitch for the American league club next year.

Gomez, here presumably to establish residence that he and June O'Dea Gomez may be divorced, said the figure gave him an increase of only $4500.

Two-Gun Lou On Location

Lou Gehrig pats his mount during the filming of his initial motion picture, "Rawhide." The Iron Man of the New York Yankees appears as a baseball player who retires to live peacefully on a western ranch. Cattle racketeers and a pretty girl thwart his plans.

HOLLYWOOD—(UP)—Lou Gehrig, the New York Yankee first baseball player who began his movie career a month ago astride cowboy company equipped with bicycle handlebars, was Hollywood's toughest—and strangest—cowpuncher today.

Two six-guns slung at his hips in typical western fashion the cowboy-horned king pulled his horse to a halt, tipped a bullet eastward Staton back on his curly head and dismounted in front of the palace saloon in a rough-and-tough cowtown a half-hour from Hollywood boulevard.

He swaggered to the door of the Palace, yawned and, Eastern accent an' all, yelled: "Boy! This is more fun than even the world series."

The burly son of the movie west who has driven scores of pitchers from the mounds of American league baseball diamonds is now driving rustlers from the range in his first movie, "Rawhide." He is playing a familiar role—that of Lou Gehrig. The movie Gehrig, however, has retired from baseball and is raising cattle on his own ranch.

A gang of Eastern racketeers steals his cattle; so Cowboy Gehrig straps on his six-guns with all the determination of Home-Run Staton back on his curly head and dismounted in front of the palace saloon in a rough-and-tough cowtown a half-hour from Hollywood boulevard.

"I'm having the time of my life," Gehrig said. "Honestly, I haven't had so much fun since I was a kid."

NEW YORK — Sonja Henie skated her for six nights at a smiles "Yes," but her stern manager says "No," and the little Norwegian winds up with another $15,000 for herself. That is what her percentage averages for a single appearance with her Hollywood revue.

A strange and perfect combination is Sonja Henie and Hugo Quist.

Quist worships the ground she walks on, and Miss Henie has sublime faith in the Finnish Quist.

Quist became widely known in the track and field trade when he brought the 1 n o m parable Paavo Nurmi to America in 1925. Everywhere he went, Nurmi collected transportation from Helsinki. He got rich as an amateur, and now is a prosperous automobile dealer in his native land.

GARCIA WOULD BATTLE CHAMP ON 'CAP EVE

By STEVE SNIDER

(United Press Staff Correspondent) CHICAGO—Honey-mooning Barney Ross came back home today and plunged into the role of breadwinner for his new Mrs. by considering offers for two profitable fights with his welterweight championship at stake.

The raven-haired Jewish boy, who probably hasn't earned as much gold as he hoped with his lightweight and welterweight titles, never had as many legitimate offers and tentative feelers in his life.

The latest came from Charley McDonald, Hollywood matchmaker, who offered $25,000 or 40 per cent of the gate for a 15-round title bout with Cefirino Garcia at Los Angeles, Feb. 4—eve of the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap.

Ross already had received a $40,000 offer to defend his title against Jack Campbell at Sydney, Australia, on April 18 and both Featherweight Champion Henry Armstrong and Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers were reported anxious for a shot at Barney's crown.

"They all want a crack at him," said his co-manager, Sam Pan. "They think he's getting old. But Barney will fight anyone who can make the weight if there is suitable cash involved."

"Suitable cash" in the case of Garcia would be $35,000, not $25,000, Plan admitted, and in Carroll's case the suitable cash would have to be placed in a U. S. bank before Ross and his title leave the country.

"That offer of $25,000 for another Garcia fight isn't enough with the title in there, too," Plan said. "Garcia gave Ross three of the roughest fights of his life and he knows enough about Barney's style to cause plenty of trouble."

"We'll have to have a guarantee of at least $35,000 to go into Los Angeles."

Ross, despite his lack of training since he defeated Garcia in a title defense on Promoter Mike Jacobs' all-star show at Madison Square Garden last September, appeared to be in excellent condition.

He looks more like a movie star than a prize fighter although he has been in the professional ring since 1929 and fought as an amateur before Plan and Art Winch picked him up.

MACK DENIES HE'LL RETIRE

PHILADELPHIA—(UP)—Connie Mack shook a half century from his shoulders last night and told the public that it would have to cut off his own form to convince him—a 75-year-old veteran—that he was too old to run a baseball team.

The tall, kindly old man, his face seamed with 54 years of baseball worries but his eyes still alight with enthusiasm, told 1200 guests at a sports writers' banquet that his next address would be Lake Charles, La., where the Philadelphia Athletics will train for the 1938 baseball season.

"There has been for years talk of my retiring from the game," Mack said. "This has been more evident this year because of my illness and my age."

"They were saying, 'It's time the old boy got out and gave someone else a chance.' But I assure you it has always been my desire to go on just as long as I could in this game of baseball."

"I love it. It's not a bad game for a man of 75."

"I love to be on the bench with those youngsters and to get me out they'll have to cut off my uniform."

Philadelphia sports writers awarded medals to Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants, as the outstanding pitcher of 1937; to Joe DiMaggio, 23-year-old slugging outfielder of the New York Yankees, as the outstanding athlete; to Mickey Cochrane as the "most courageous athlete in sports during 1937."

Cochrane, manager of the Detroit Tigers, suffered a near fatal injury last summer when he was struck on the head by a pitched ball.

NAME NEW OLDS PLATE HOLDERS SELLING AIDE ADD TO BEAUTY

The appointment of R. L. Myers as assistant general sales manager for Oldsmobile, in charge of the eastern half of the United States, was announced today by D. E. Ralston, general sales manager.

Myers assumes his new position with a background of 23 years experience with General Motors, more than 12 of which were in its automobile divisions. For the past four years Mr. Myers has been manager of Oldsmobile's Atlantic Region. Prior to this he was regional manager for the Buick-Olds-Pontiac Sales Company on the Pacific Coast. It was stated that Myers will transfer his headquarters from New York to Lansing and will assume his new duties immediately.

In announcing the appointment of Myers to his new position, Mr. Ralston stated that Myers will join H. A. Trevelyan and G. R. Browder as assistant general sales managers in the Oldsmobile organization. Trevelyan is in charge of Oldsmobile sales in the western half of the United States and Browder heads up Oldsmobile's retail selling activities.

You can add to the appearance of your automobile with the addition of license plate holders when you install the new state car tags this month, according to Murray Rosenfeld, general manager of the Pep Boys of California.

"With the addition of this simple automobile accessory you protect your plates from bending at the slightest blow by framing them in strong, durable, handsome chromium holders," Rosenfeld stated recently.

"In driving down the highway you will note that attractive holders always add to the looks of any automobile. It gives the moderately priced car that expensive touch at the same time preparing the tags to weather bumps and blows it can expect to receive in a year of parking and driving."

With thousands of people installing their new plates this month, this and many other fine accessories are being featured at the local Pep Boys store, 211 North Main street.

FARM FIGURES SHOW DECLINE IN DECEMBER

For the first time in many months, December farm prices in California, as indicated by the quotations on 24 leading items, failed to reach the figures achieved for the same month in the so-called "normal period," 1910 to 1915.

Index of 99

As against an index of 100 for the normal period, last month showed 99. According to Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg, quoting data from the Division of Agricultural Economics, University of California, likewise the December, 1937, prices in this combination were but 65 per cent of the December prices in the years 1924 to 1929, the so-called "boom" years.

Twelve of the items, however, beef cattle, veal calves, sheep, lambs, milk, milk fat, butter, chickens, horses, oats, hay (other than alfalfa), and lemons scored an increase over December of 1937. However, 14 of the items, beef cattle, hogs, butter, eggs, chickens, horses, wheat, corn, alfalfa hay, other hay, cotton, oranges, lemons and apples sold higher in November, 1937 than they did last month, and a substantial number of the items in November showed a decline from the month before.

CAR PASSING ON RIGHT IS LEGAL

A motorist legally may pass on the right side of another car proceeding in the same direction on a city street, providing sufficient clearance is allowed, Capt. H. C. Meehan, head of the California highway patrol in Orange county, said today in answering a series of questions.

A motorist explained that it is the practice of some city officials to make arrests of motorists who pass on the right of a car. But such arrest may be illegal, Captain Meehan says.

Other questions with answers offered by Meehan include: "Does the vehicle code require me to have a window open while driving an automobile?" No, but good judgment does. There is danger of carbon monoxide poisoning when riding in a closed car.

"How can service upon a non-resident be made in a suit for damages when one defendant has returned to his or her home state? By leaving a copy of a summons and complaint with a fee of 2.00 for each non-resident served, with the director of motor vehicles department, Sacramento.

"Are officers permitted to serve traffic arrest warrants at night? Yes, when the court issuing the warrant gives written permission to do so. Are speed traps permitted? No, the law specifically prohibits them.

"What is the youngest age a person may secure a chauffeur's license? Eighteen. My operator's license was destroyed when I sent it to a laundry by mistake. Do I have to take another test and lose a half-day's pay in doing so? No; you may secure a duplicate by making satisfactory proof of the loss. An eye test is required and a fee of 50 cents in charged for a duplicate."

TOWNSEND TOPICS

Townsend Club No. 5, of which W. A. Zimmerman was president until he went to the hospital, has been having a lot of trouble in getting lined out right. After Mr. Zimmerman was taken to the hospital, J. A. Yerger, vice president, ascended to the chair and recently he went under the doctor's care. Then the club elected Miss Myrtle Brierton as president but in her WPA work was transferred to Tus-tin before she got well started, and J. W. Voeke became the pinch hitter as acting president.

Mrs. A. H. Goble of West Edinger called at headquarters at 509 West Fourth street yesterday and while here expressed her appreciation of the Townsend news items that are being published in The Register.

Dr. E. A. Gibbs visited headquarters Monday evening and remained to attend the regular weekly meeting of Club No. 2. Dr. Gibbs will be remembered by many of the early day Townsends who were closely associated with the speaker's bureau out of Long Beach. He is now making his home at room 308 Y. M. C. A. building.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Rockwell and their grandson were visiting at Los Angeles yesterday and while in the metropolis visited the National Townsend headquarters at 855 South Figueroa and attended the regular noon day lecture. Alfred Redmond was the speaker and Mr. Rockwell is high in his praise of the wonderful address that was delivered.

Mrs. P. R. Long, 906 West First street, wife of the president of Club No. 2, has been on the sick list for the past week but at the present time is convalescing.

Mrs. Alice C. Wilson, member of Townsend Club No. 6 of Santa Ana, who was seriously hurt in an auto accident on New Year's day at 201 East Tenth street, has been taken from the Santa Ana Valley hospital to the home of her daughter, at 229 Frankford street, Huntington Beach. Mrs. Wilson was walking home in company with Mrs. Matilda Ford, 71, when a car driven by Virgil Martin who is on the U. S. S. Maryland at San Pedro ran them down and nearly instantly killing Mrs. Ford and seriously injuring Mrs. Wilson.

Mrs. Hanna Holmes has returned to her home in Santa Ana from a four months visit at Fredonia, Kas. She was accompanied back to Southern California by Mrs. Minnie Tyler who will make her home in Santa Ana in the future. Mrs. Holmes has been a resident of Santa Ana for the past 26 years. They are now living at the Mason hotel at 312½ West Fourth street. Mrs. Ford's daughter, who is an aunt of Mrs. J. W. Pickering, well known worker in the Townsend movement, Mrs. Orr, resides at 713½ East Fourth street.

The public dedication of the Townsend headquarters in Los Angeles at 855 South Figueroa will present a program of great interest to Townsends in Southern California Saturday, January 29 from 5 to 7:30 p. m. In addition to the usual good-time program there will be a dance at which Dr. and Mrs. Francis E. Townsend will be guests of honor.

Mr. E. E. Eldredge of Huntington Beach who formerly conducted a barber shop in that city was a pleasant caller at these headquarters Tuesday.

Peter Benthin, publicity agent for Townsend Club No. 7, that holds alternate meeting nights with Club No. 1, at the Roosevelt school on East First street, announces that his club will be "It" Friday night, when they expect a wonderful meeting as some important club matters are to come up.

Hon. Harry C. Westover, state senator from Orange county and his brother-in-law, Stanford Equen who is visiting here from the east, made a business trip to Los Angeles Tuesday. Senator Westover will be the speaker Thursday night at Newport Beach for Townsend club No. 1. The meeting will be held at the city hall.

Mrs. E. F. Millard who has been on the sick list is reported much improved at the present time.

A large number of Townsends assembled at the Townsend headquarters at 509 West Fourth street Tuesday night to listen to the radio at 8:30 when Dr. Francis E. Townsend delivered one of his wonderful addresses. At the conclusion of the address not one word of criticism was heard.

P. R. Long, 906 West First street, president of Club No. 2, has been on the sick list for the past 10 days and has been unable to make his daily appearance at the Townsend headquarters.

A patent was issued in 1868 on an extra long bib that could be spread on the table as a protection against falling food. The bib had a rim to catch foodstuffs.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25c. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

No, today we don't dress for driving. Gone is the necessity for bundling oneself up in the characteristic long duster, peaked cap and goggles. Driving today has been made a pleasure. It was an expensive thrill in the "good old days" when a car cost several thousand dollars.

Today, the thrill is there, made comfortable, but the expense is gone. Jimmie Fidler
in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25.—38—Idol chatter: Give any young actress a scene in lingerie and her fan mail will double on release of the picture—that is why Hollywood does it. Eric Blore always sits in a chair as though he were modeling for "The Thinker." Today's ho-hum from the publicity barrage: "Richard Cromwell has for a pet parrot which can recite Hamlet's Soliloquy in its entirety." I cannot vouch for Leah Ray's acting ability—but she has the most beautiful eyes in all Hollywood. Look alike—in profile: Anabella and Madeleine Carroll.

Must be getting blasé—I never register excitement any more when the publicity lads report a new romance for Dixie Dunbar. That huge Kodak brown bear skin which hangs on the saloon wall in "Girl of the Golden West" really belongs to the noted woodsman, J. Barrymore—he bagged its original owner in Alaska. Pat O'Brien's family call him "Bill" instead of "Pat." Unless ankle length skirts return to fashion Carole Lombard would be a cinch to sway the average jury.

Amazing how many pig-tails are sprouting in Hollywood since Shirley Temple adopted them for her current role. Appropriate names: Milton Cashy is one of Filmville's more successful business managers. Grace Moore's favorite color is pink; there is a dash of it on almost every costume she wears. Tip to Gene Raymond: you would be popular with more male fans if you could steam out that marcel. Most of the theatrical wigs, beards and mustaches are imported from Central Europe.

Never has Hollywood taken up any fad with such wild enthusiasm as it has the current photography craze. Half of our stars wear candid cameras draped around their necks; the other half tote their trusty 16 millimeter movie cameras wherever they go. Most of the biggie stars have obtained studio permission to take their movie cameras on the sets. They photograph the scenes in which they do appear. Worst of all the camera nuts is Jimmy Stewart. He made a sixteen millimeter version of every scene in his last picture—and photographed it in color. Three days before the studio's production was previewed, every executive on the lot received a formal invitation to attend Stewart's private preview. And they liked several of the ideas he had used in editing his film so well they were adopted for the professional picture.

In the Twentieth Century cafe today, I met Paul McVey, just back from Africa's jungles where he has been playing a leading role in "Stanley and Livingstone." This is his tale of woe: He made the location trip under protest. In Africa, he contracted, first malaria, then jungle fever. Having struggled through his role, he went to London—and there he had to submit to a major operation. But it was only when he arrived in Hollywood that he learned of the prime disaster. He had held the ticket that won a $1500 prize in a local theatre's bank night. His wife heard the number called, but could not collect. Paul had carried the ticket in his bill fold—and it was somewhere in Africa.

To Hollywood's extras, 1937 will always be the year of the "big boom." Never before, in all Film-town history, have so many of them worked. Each studio has produced an unusual number of "colossal" requiring mob scenes—"Wells Fargo," "The Buccaneer," "The Road Back," "Conquest," "Gold is Where You Find It," "In Old Chicago," "All Baba," "Robin Hood" and at least a dozen others. Official figures recently released by Central

Declaring that air transportation on scheduled air lines today is not only the most rapid form of transportation, but is comfortable and safe, S. F. Leib, special representative of United Air Lines, yesterday gave an illustrated lecture at the regular meeting of the Santa Ana Rotary club at the Masonic Temple.

Testing Tunnel
Proceeding the sound picture, done in natural color, Leib pointed to the fact that not only the public but insurance companies were realizing the increasing safety of air travel.

"It is interesting to note," Leib said, "that insurance companies now are giving the same rates to travelers on scheduled air lines as are afforded to train, bus, or water transportation."

Included in the picture were shown what is believed to be the first pictures taken of the testing wind tunnel at California Institute of Technology.

Dr. A. E. Vallier acted as program chairman for the day and introduced the speaker, Wendell Finley, vice-president, presided at the meeting in the absence of President John McCoy.

ONE DRIVER IS BLAMED; WRECK
HELD AVOIDABLE

Frank J. Ramirez, 19, Anaheim, now in county jail on a charge of negligent homicide, was blamed late yesterday by an inquest jury for the traffic death of Mrs. Marie Agnes Bohr, 77, Sunday night in Anaheim, while the inquest jury which considered evidence in connection with the traffic death of Clyde Simpson, 45, Norwalk oil worker, Monday morning, declared that either Simpson or Raymond Hamilton, school bus driver, could have avoided the accident.

Both inquests were held at Backs, Terry and Campbell funeral chapel, Anaheim.

License Suspended
Ramirez, to be prosecuted by Deputy District Atty. J. E. Walker, faces preliminary hearing on the felony, Saturday, 9 a. m., before Judge Frank Tausch, city judge of Anaheim.

No criminal blame was placed upon either Simpson or Hamilton by the jury, in charge of Coroner Earl Abbey, but the highway patrol office has suspended Hamilton's bus driver's license. Simpson was fatally injured when his car and the Anaheim high school bus operated by Hamilton collided at Crescent and Miller roads.

"From the evidence," reported the jury in the Bohr case, "Mrs. Marie Agnes Bohr was crossing Center street at Emily in Anaheim Sunday evening in a pedestrian zone and the accident was due to the negligent manner in which Ramirez was operating his car."

Services Planned
Funeral services were held today for Mrs. Bohr at the Backs, Terry and Campbell chapel with the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in charge. She was buried in Anaheim cemetery.

Funeral services for Mr. Simpson, in charge of Backs, Terry and Campbell chapel, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow, conducted by the Long Beach Consistory of Scottish Rite and the Long Beach Blue Lodge of Masons at the Norwalk Funeral parlors, Norwalk. Mr. Simpson will be buried at Little Lake cemetery, Norwalk.

ACTION ON ROAD STRIP HELD UP

Delay in the hearing over proposed condemnation of a strip of road through the C. M. McNeese ranch in the Katella district was requested of the board of supervisors yesterday on the grounds that a compromise might be reached.

R. C. Mize, attorney for McNeese, told the board that he would like postponement for one week, pending action by the state in drawing up deeds for a new "compromise" road, which would replace a section of Haster road as a crossing between Manchester boulevard and the 101 Highway, north of the intersection of those two highways.

Careful Search
McNeese had objected to further use of the present road on his property on grounds that it was a private thoroughfare. He was op-

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

Timmons Home Lends Setting For Festivity

In the old days it was "the Bowery, the Bowery, we don't go there any more," but last night the Bowery was inspiration for a hilarious affair at which Mr. and Mrs. Edward Timmons and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hall received a group of guests in the Timmons home on Red Hill avenue.

Since the guests all were attired in the most ridiculously clever costumes imaginable, they were not surprised to be greeted by two very amusingly attired host couples. Mrs. Hall wore a pink fur over the blouse which topped her short plaid skirt. Jewelry and red satin shoes gave added color to her costume. Mrs. Timmons chose a red and green combination in dress and coat. Mr. Timmons was not nearly large enough for the suit which he had borrowed from his father-in-law, George Briggs. Mr. Hall was quite a dashing figure in his Spanish Don outfit completed with leather coat.

Walters, wearing full dress, were Ed Paul, George Aupperle and Max Galusha. They were assisted by Miss Betty Timmons, who had dressed in red and white gingham dress matching the bright-hued cloths with which a long table was draped in the play room.

Following dinner, members of the party enjoyed dancing the big apple, and later turned their attentions to bridge. Prize winners were Mrs. Lawrence Bemis and Wilbur Barr.

With Mr. and Mrs. Hall and Mr. and Mrs. Timmons were Dr. and Mrs. John Ball, Messrs. and Mesdames Fred Perry, Horace Stevens, Wilbur Barr, Rex Kennedy, Calvin Flint, Braden Finch, Franklin West, Lawrence Bemis, Richard Winkler, Miss Lucinda Griffith and Clarence Sprague.

Events on the January social calendar for members of Santa Ana County club will reach a climax this weekend, with Friday night bringing a formal dance and Sunday night, the weekly buffet supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Riley Huber, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Langley and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hernandez of the standing committee will receive members and guests Friday night. This will be a formal dance, with music to be provided by Lee Mann's orchestra.

Since several members have revealed their plans to dine at the clubhouse in advance of the dance, it was announced today that reservations for this early evening feature should be made soon at the club office. Dinner will be served at 7:30 o'clock, with dancing to begin at 9:30 o'clock.

MRS. HADDON'S GUESTS
Mrs. John H. Kite and her daughter, Miss Aileen Kite of New Jersey, today left for Glendale after a few days visit with their cousin, Mrs. Sara Johnston Haddon, 202 1-2 South Sycamore street, who planned several delightful affairs for the visitors' entertainment.

The group spent yesterday at Palm Springs, having enjoyed an earlier trip to Coronado, San Diego and Tia Juana. Sunday night brought an informal little dinner party at which Mrs. Haddon feted her cousins. Completing the group were W. H. Haddon, Miss Marion Cruickshank and Mrs. Marguerite Bergmeyer.

Talk on Mexico Given Following Section Luncheon

Inspired by program plans for yesterday afternoon's meeting of Ebell Current Events section, a Mexican luncheon for which members assembled at La Hacienda cafe, later going to the clubhouse for a talk on Mexico by Julia Ann Hyde (Mrs. C. W. Hyde Jr.).

Although Mrs. Hazel Maag was ill in St. Joseph hospital, she evidenced her interest in the occasion by aiding in plans for the affair. She and Mrs. S. B. Kaufman were among those who had taken a tour of Mexico City as a member of Mrs. Hyde's party late last year, so it seemed especially appropriate that the two should serve on the hostess committee. Completing the foursome in charge yesterday were Mrs. Frank Sawyer and Mrs. Walter Hickey.

Mrs. Hyde's talk proved especially enjoyable, with colored pictures to add to the realistic setting which she created with her vivid descriptions. Part of the afternoon was spent in playing bridge, with prizes going to Mrs. Nick Brock and Mrs. John Backus. Each received a gift of Guadalajara blue glass.

Present were Mesdames John Backus, Harvey Bennett, Nick Brock, Dorsey Clayton, Henry Guthrie, John Kettler, Herbert Krahling, William Maag, E. L. McKamy, Nat Neff, George Osterman, Hugh Shields, Harvey Spears, George Veeh, Roy Langley, Lynn Osterander, Robert Jeffrey, Miss Louise Tubbs and the hostess group.

ALTRUSA CLUB PLANS

There are double interests in store for Altrusa club members at their meeting Thursday night in the Y. W. clubrooms, for Miss Helen Gallagher has promised a special feature for the 6:30 o'clock supper hour, and Mrs. Edna Hewett Crawford, executive secretary of the Orange County Tuberculosis association, is giving the evening program.

In developing this program, Mrs. Crawford will present two talking pictures, "Behind the Shadows" and "Story of My Life by Tee Bee," both remarkable for showing the manner in which tuberculosis and its inroads are studied and combated by such organizations as that which she represents.

For the supper hour, Miss Gallagher has promised one of her famous buckwheat cake and sausage menus, the hotcakes to be in strict accordance with the traditional buckwheat cakes of the east, made from flour sent each winter to her and her father, Arthur Gallagher.

Native Daughters

Mrs. Stella Gates' resignation as vice president of Santa Ana Native Daughters of the Golden West necessitates election of a successor, with Mildred Wheeler, Estelle Dresser and Margaret Evanson appointed members of the nominating committee at Monday night's meeting in K. C. Hall.

Mrs. J. E. Pleasants, one of Orange County's most widely-known pioneers, was speaker of the evening. She devoted the greater part of her talk to Madame Modjeska, whom Mrs. Pleasants knew intimately.

Refreshments were served by the president, Mrs. Arthur Edwards. It was reported that two members, Mrs. W. A. West and Mrs. Daphne Leabo are ill.

Plans Launched For Annual Jack Fisher Military Ball

Just about this time each year when the holidays and their gayeties are well in the past, social interest is centered in the annual Military Ball presented by Jack Fisher post and auxiliary, Disabled American Veterans. Plans for the 1938 functions have been brewing among D.A.V. members for many weeks, and Harry S. Pickard, general chairman for the ball, has now announced his citizens' committee.

Just a decade ago when the first Military Ball was given on Washington's birthday, the function leaped into popular favor both because it set a high standard in the community's social affairs and because of the warm interest attached to anything benefitting the World war heroes comprising the D.A.V.

Nothing so completely indicates this county-wide interest in the manner which prominent people in every section of the county respond to invitation to help serve on the citizens' committee. The men and women to function this year under chairmanship of Mr. Pickard, a past commander of Jack Fisher post, will hold their first meeting Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in the A. G. Flag home, 1320 North Broadway.

On this committee with Mr. and Mrs. Flag will be Mrs. W. S. Thompson, president of Santa Ana Ebell society; Mrs. F. E. Coulter, Mrs. Fannie E. Reeves ("Mother Reeves" to all World war veterans), Mrs. Van Leonard Brown, president of Jack Fisher auxiliary; Lieut. Com. and Mrs. Irwin F. Landis, Messrs. W. B. Williams, Terry E. Stephenson, Frank C. Drumm, J. Riley Huber, R. C. Holmes and Braden Finch.

Also on the committee are Mrs. Jack Corra, Anaheim; Mr. and Mrs. C. Glenn Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Craig, Brea; Mrs. Harry Welch, Messrs. David R. Day and W. Kee Maxwell, Fullerton; Mrs. Christine Todd, Garden Grove; W. O. Hart, Orange; Mrs. Charles D. Swanner, Tustin; Mrs. Edwin S. Allen, Huntington Beach; Mrs. Frank L. Smith, Newport Harbor; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Speckman, Yorba Linda and Major J. W. Woodbridge, San Clemente.

Acceptance on the part of Major Woodbridge to the invitation to serve, was of special interest. He is a member of Sacramento post, D.A.V., and came recently to the Spanish Village where he is associated with the Capital company.

In accordance with the established tradition of holding the annual ball close to the Washington birthday date, Chairman Pickard and his co-workers have selected Monday night, February 21 for the function, which will be staged again in Valencia ballroom, a point so centrally located that it is easily available from every section of the county and the Southland as a whole. Choice of Monday rather than Tuesday night was dictated by the policy of the host organization to avoid conflict with other important dates already selected by different major organizations.

Proceeds of the annual ball are applied to the fund for rehabilitation and welfare of Orange county's disabled veterans and their families, and this is the only occasion during the year when post and auxiliary members go outside their own organization to ask aid in their altruistic projects. Response from the community always has been whole-hearted and enthusiastic, so this year's crowd is expected to be the largest yet in attendance during the ten years of the ball's presentation.

Church Societies

Members of the Go-Getters class of Santa Ana Nazarene church made a special occasion of their January meeting, staging a housewarming in the Garden Grove home of Mr. and Mrs. Holmer Hughes.

Alvis Williams conducted a short business meeting. The Rev. J. H. McCabe of Huntington Park led in prayer. The Rev. L. D. Meggers, pastor of the local church, gave a short talk in dedication of the home.

The program included violin music by Joy Ruth Owen; a reading by Irene Wyckoff, songs by Harold and La Vonne Cole; readings by Mrs. C. E. Dunham. On behalf of the congregation, N. E. Owen presented Mr. and Mrs. Hughes with gifts.

Many members of the class were accompanied by their families. The group included the Rev. L. D. Meggers, Mrs. Vena Carter, Messrs. and Mesdames C. E. Dunham, Roy Williams, Bert Skiles, W. A. Culbertson, Parker Wilson, Alfred Lounsbury, D. P. Bottorff, Ira W. Mann, Robert Smith, J. S. McClure, H. E. Beard, J. V. Glenn, R. P. Gates, A. J. Cole, N. E. Owen, Thomas Marriott, L. S. Sharp, Mrs. H. J. Hart, Miss Pearl Galloway, Mrs. Gilbert, Alvis Williams, Mrs. E. Martin, Mrs. Bernice Thomas, Miss Irene Wyckoff and Miss Ida Martin, all of this community; the Rev. and Mrs. J. H. McCabe, Huntington Park.

Games and refreshments were on the late evening program for members of Santa Ana chapter O. E. S. who assembled Monday night in Masonic temple for a meeting conducted by Mrs. Sue Henry and Forrest White, worthy matron and patron.

Mary Adrain and Estelle McFarren were in charge of entertainment. Bingo was played during the evening, with prizes going to Lillian Dawson and Dr. James Workman, who held the two high scores.

Mabel Barge, chairman of refreshments, was assisted by Mrs. W. D. Barnard, Mary Nickey and Silvetta Andros. Decorations were in charge of Mrs. Harry Roberts and Miss Catherine Good.

Members will share a valentine party on their next meeting night, February 14.

Church Plans Reception To New Pastor

Complimenting their new ministerial family, Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Holman and their daughter, Miss Marjorie Holman, so recently arrived from Manhattan, Kans., the members of First M. E. church will entertain Thursday night at a formal reception and program.

Program features will be staged in the auditorium, beginning at 8 o'clock, with S. S. Vogt as master of ceremonies. Subsequent social features will find settings in the social rooms of the church, where the associated women's organizations will have charge of introductions, decorations, refreshments and the various phases of hospitality.

Dr. and Mrs. Holman arrived in this city less than a week ago, and Dr. Holman presented his first sermon Sunday morning in the church. Miss Marjorie Holman, a student at U. S. C., is the only one of their three daughters accompanying the Holmans to the coast at this time. One daughter is teaching in the Manhattan schools and another is secretary to one of the school principals.

Social Section Affair Draws Many Guests

Twelve tables of games were in play yesterday afternoon in Veterans hall where Woman's club Social section members and guests assembled for a pleasant affair which began with the serving of dessert.

Sweet peas and hyacinths centered tables for this opening feature. Hostesses were Mesdames E. O. Ahern, Otto Knoche, Jennie Stone, May Matthews, A. A. Schlusman and Leland Ewbank.

Mrs. M. O. Wells, Mrs. E. G. Warner and Mrs. R. W. Cole won prizes for high scores in contract, auction bridge and anagrams.

Members were reminded that reservations should be made soon with Mrs. L. E. Tarbox, telephone 27793 for the birthday luncheon to be held February 1.

INTERESTING VISITOR

An interesting recent visitor in this city whom Santa Anans anticipate hearing on some future program, was Mrs. L. R. Egbert, known professionally as Margot Hayes, who was a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar de Beck, 1205 South Garnsey street.

Mrs. Egbert has been affiliated with various eastern opera companies and has concertized extensively in this country and in Canada, with high success both as a concert and opera artist. She has sung with such well known opera stars as Scott and Stenschenko of the Metropolitan; Passmore and Rogerson of the Chicago Opera, and many other outstanding singers. She has also done theatrical work and before devoting her attention to concert and opera, was active as soloist and director in church work.

For several seasons, Mrs. Egbert has been on tour with her own symphony ensemble of which she was both soloist and director. Her training was under recognized masters, and her proficiency in modern languages has been gained from study under native teachers.

Generous Gift Made by Greek Letter Women To Student Loan

Gratifying news that they would have the sum of $175 to donate to Junior College Scholarship fund, was given to Panhellenic members last night at their meeting with a cordial hostess group at Danagers. This generous gift was made possible by the annual student loan fund given during the holidays under general chairmanship of Miss Reva Hawkins.

It was during a short business session conducted by Mrs. Jack Hill that the amount of the gift was announced, when various of Miss Hawkins' sub-chairmen made their reports on mid-winter activities. Later the meeting became entirely social, and the hostesses, Mrs. Frank T. Lewis, Mrs. George Spielman, Mrs. Elsie Daly, Miss Janet Diehl, Mrs. John D. Maxwell and Mrs. H. L. Manker, introduced their friendly plans for entertainment.

They had arranged a very colorful valentine party with bridge equipment stressing the romantic heart theme. Their dessert course continued the heart motif in the center of the pean ice cream roll served with cakes and coffee. It appeared again in tissues and ribbons of bridge prizes awarded Mrs. Henry Williams, Mrs. J. M. Campbell and Mrs. Paul Gilbert. Ten tables were in play, and the winners were delighted with tooled leather desk portfolios in ivory with tones of pink and blue.

Mrs. Wendell Finley was welcomed to Panhellenic membership, and greetings were extended three special guests, Mrs. Gabriel Payne of Detroit, Mich., a charter member of the society as the former Eleanor Sturgeon; Mrs. J. M. Campbell and another guest from the east, Mrs. R. L. Koons, recently arrived from Ohio as a guest in the Clarence H. Holmes home.

Mixing Bowl

Did you ever serve a creamy hot potato salad with baked ham? There is an affinity between the two not excelled by any food combination known. The recipe given here, uses sour cream, but sweet cream or evaporated milk may be used, too.

Creamy Potato Salad

5 cups hot cooked potatoes, cut in cubes and thin slices
1 small onion, finely minced
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 crushed clove of garlic, to rub the salad bowl
4 slices of bacon, diced and fried crisp
1 heaping table spoon flour, blended with butter
3 tablespoons vinegar mixed with 1-4 cup boiling water, stirred into bacon fat, followed when thick, by
1-2 cup of sour cream, mixed with 1-2 teaspoon of dry mustard.
Cook the dressing rapidly, making it thick and smooth before adding the sour cream, the saucapane drawn off the fire while the cream is stirred in, then set over a low fire and the dressing beaten with egg whip to smooth it while it reheats. Pour over the cubed potatoes in salad bowl and mix lightly through potatoes, using two forks, to lift with, not to stir.

When you need our fine Safe and Sane reducing diet, write for it, enclosing only a stamped addressed envelope.

HONORABLE MENTION RECIPES

Southern Butter Bread
2 cups sweet milk scalded and made into a mush with
1 cup white or yellow corn meal
Stir in 2 table spoons butter or bacon fat and let it cool
Sift 2-3 cup flour with
1-2 teaspoon soda and 1 teaspoon salt
3 eggs, white beaten stiff
1 cup sour milk or buttermilk.
—Contributed.

First make the cornmeal mush, add fat and let it cool until the egg yolks can be dropped in and beaten, one by one. Alternate sifted flour and buttermilk in mixing; when the batter is ready, fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Spread an inch deep in a well oiled pan, cover top with paper until the cake has risen. Oven heat should be 350-375 degrees.

Batter bread may be served as a breakfast bread or with chicken in place of potato.

Steamed Veal Loaf With Baked Dressing

Have ground together:
1-4 pound dry salt pork and
1-2 pounds veal (solid meat weight)
Mix with the meat—
1 egg and 6 tablespoons cream, beaten
1-2 cup fine crumbs
1 tablespoon chopped onion and parsley
2 canned pimientos, diced
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
2 teaspoons salt and 1 of pepper.
—Contributed.

Mould with the hands into a pillable spongy mass. Pack into a greased pan, score top and fill with strips of bacon. Set in steamer and steam 2 hours. Turn the steamed loaf into a flat casserole, cover top and sides with a rich stuffing such as you would use for chicken, and bake it for 30 minutes in a medium oven. The loaf serves six. Plan a creamed vegetable since there is no gravy possible.

Rolled Sandwiches

Use a very fresh pullman style loaf of white bread. Remove all crusts and cut lengthwise.

County Groups Enjoy Program On The Drama

Interest in the drama was expressed by representatives of half a dozen Ebell and Woman's club groups of the county yesterday at Ebell clubhouse, where an all-day program was presented under direction of Mrs. L. L. Beaman, County Federation of Women's club drama chairman.

What the outgrowth of this initial meeting will be was not decided definitely, but it was indicated that similar sessions may be held at intervals throughout the year. If this plan is carried out, there will be a symposium of ideas on the drama during each program, it was announced.

Opening in the morning with greetings by Mrs. W. S. Thompson, president of Ebell society, and Mrs. R. G. Miller of Huntington Beach, president of Orange County Federation of Women's clubs, the meeting closed in the afternoon with a play by Junior Jane Moore presented in this climactic feature. As a student director, she described the problems of the amateur stage enthusiast, telling of the manner in which study is carried on in Ernest Crozier Phillips' college drama classes. After a short talk she introduced the setting for a play which was given by a cast of five students. Receiving a warm reception for their portrayals were Miss Virginia Scott, Miss Isa Grace Young, Victor Rowland, Russell Haney and Miss June Holman.

Earlier in the afternoon was a talk by Mrs. Randall D. Stone of Huntington Beach, motion picture chairman. She read an article, "Walt Disney, the Modern Grimm," which was followed by an open discussion on motion pictures.

Morning Session

Luncheon at Danagers was a mid-day event enjoyed by the club representatives. They devoted the morning to a varied program highlighted by a talk by Mrs. H. H. Benjamin of Anaheim, leader of that city's Ebell Drama section. "Ibsen and the Modern Drama," was her topic. Mrs. Lyle Forman of the county library listed plays and books on drama which are made available to the club members.

Mrs. Beaman read a report sent in by Mrs. H. E. Cooper of San Diego, drama chairman in the Southern District federation. Among those present were Mrs. R. G. Miller, Mrs. Randall D. Stone and Mrs. Fred Brooks, Huntington Beach; Mrs. James McCracken, representing Garden Grove club; Mrs. A. P. M. Brown, president of Anaheim Ebell society and Mrs. H. H. wise into thin slices. If not pliable, steam the slices a trifle. Spread with soft butter and use a different filling on each slice. Roll each slice tightly, and chill until serving time, when the rolls are sliced into thin pin-wheel sandwiches. Chives and cream cheese, ripe olive and walnut, ground ham with pickle and mayonnaise, egg salad or chicken salad fillings are suggestions for the eight slices each loaf will make.

Boot 'n' Spur Members Honor Dorothy Smith

Because Miss Dorothy M. Smith hasn't many more weeks left in this life to ride with her equestrian sisters of Boot 'n' Spur club, before her departure for the New England states, club members made their meeting of Monday night at Meadow Lark clubhouse, a very special occasion in her honor.

For when Miss Smith leaves Santa Ana on February 11, "Journey's end" for her will be wedding bells, for she is to go to Montpelier, Vt., there to become the bride of William Richmond, son of Mrs. Florence Richmond of Burlington, Vt. Miss Smith is the daughter of James G. Smith, 501 Wellington avenue, and came to this city less than three years ago. A graduate of Drake University of Des Moines, Iowa, she has been connected with the clerical department of First National bank. Her fiancé is an alumnus of University of Vermont, where she was affiliated with Kappa Sigma fraternity. He is with Standard Oil company in Montpelier.

These romantic plans have been of keen interest to Boot 'n' Spur members, who expressed their interest by showering pyrex ware and other kitchen equipment on the bride-elect at the conclusion of their usual canter Monday evening. Miss Katherine Smith was hostess at the party which was staged in the clubhouse amidst clusters of white ranunculus blossoms glowing in the radiance of pale green tapers.

This effective color scheme was uppermost in all details of the evening, including the refreshment hour, with its ice cream roll centered with pale green bridal candles, and served with coffee and individual cakes iced in white with green flower design.

Present in addition to the hostess and her honoree were Mesdames John Ortiz, Charles R. Frazier, Esther Rannels, Delbert Lewis of Orange, Helen Smith-Mabe, Edna Duckett, Chad Harwood, Cedric Jones, the Misses Ruth Mary Reichstein, Delphine Loper, Marie LaBrucherie, Lillie Forsberg, Genevieve Campbell, all Boot 'n' Spur members, and Mrs. H. H. Helbush Jr., a guest.

Ohio Girl, 24, Ousts Politics In Postoffice

KELLEY'S ISLAND, O.—(UP)—The post office at this Lake Erie village claims distinction on two counts.

First, and foremost, is its postmaster, pretty 24-year-old Virginia Lange. Miss Lange succeeded her father, Frank Lange, who had served as postmaster from 1935 until his death last January. Her appointment confirmed by the senate, Miss Lange set about bringing modern, efficient methods to the post office. She says she's out to prove she "can run the job to perfection." Admitting she is no politician, Miss Lange says she expects to clinch her right to the job solely by application of good business methods.

CITY COUNCIL AGREEMENT

ANAHEIM, Jan. 26.—Consideration of two projects which would offer improved service to Anaheim people and industries occupied the city council last evening.

Opening of Olive street north of La Palma to Commercial street, providing an outlet for the new Cal-Juices by-products plant was one project to be considered.

Width Discussed
Recommendation was made by the city planning commission that the street be extended at a 60-foot width. Need for extending the street did not appear to be questioned but the width of the new portion was discussed. Action was delayed.

The other project considered was presented by W. E. Whiteman, chief radio technician for Orange county's police broadcast system. He proposed installment of equipment which would give Anaheim a direct two-way broadcast service between the police station, the police cars and the rest of the county. The council took the matter under consideration.

Sign Agreement
The council last night entered into a new agreement with the county health department in compliance with new regulations set up by the state, whereby the county will be reimbursed for cost of enforcing city health ordinances. Reports were made by Councilman Leo Sheridan, speaking for himself and for Grover Walters, of Fullerton, and Dr. J. E. Riley, of Orange, as committee from Section Two of the outfall sewer, whereby the committee went on record to the effect that four miles of Section Two outfall sewer, a WPA application for reconstruction of the four miles is pending.

ARCADIA CHIEF OF POLICE REINSTATED

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 26.—(UP)—Police Chief Donald Ott of Arcadia was back in office today after a temporary suspension in connection with an asserted bookmaking scheme at Santa Anita track.

The Arcadia city council restored him by an unanimous vote last night upon Mayor James R. Griffith's announcement that he was "unable to prove any charges whatsoever" against Ott.

Leon Raab, under arrest, is alleged to have offered state officials a bribe to let bookmakers into the track. Three Los Angeles city councilmen, Darwin Tate, Howard Davis and Earl Gay, admitted attending a dinner at which Raab allegedly discussed his plans with certain guests, but insisted they went to eat and not to discuss bribes.

BANDIT KIDNAPERS SOUGHT BY POLICE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 26.—(UP)—Police today hunted two gunmen who kidnaped and robbed M. A. Erickson, 35, Sacramento salesman, last night in an alley behind a downtown theater, drove him into Yolo county where they left him bound and blindfolded in a field.

Erickson was held up by the bandits when he went into the alley to get his automobile while his wife and eight-year-old twin sons waited for him in front of the theater.

He said the men blindfolded him with gauze from a first aid kit in the car and tied his hands and feet with ropes. He said both were armed and while one sat with him in the back seat, covering him with a gun, the second drove into Yolo county, where he was left. The men fled in his car.

His wife and children went home in a taxi. Erickson was picked up by passing motorists when, still blindfolded and with his hands, he managed to free his feet and stumble to a roadway.

CHINESE PLAN NEW OFFENSIVE

SHANGHAI, Jan. 26.—(UP)—The Chinese high command has ordered a general offensive against Japanese by guerrilla fighters in the far northwest, Chinese sources said today.

It was intimated that the offensive already had started in Suiyuan province, north of the Great Wall, and Chinese reported that guerrillas in Shensi province, south of the wall, were cooperating.

Prevent Withdrawals
The object was to take advantage of the withdrawal of Japanese troops from some points in the northwest, and prevent further withdrawals of Japanese troops to strengthen the armies driving on Hsuechow, the important railroad junction on the north-south Tientsin-Nanking line.

Chinese asserted that their men were operating with success against the Japanese on the Hsuechow front and in the Wuhu area, up the Yangtze from Nanking.

It was asserted that Chinese guerrillas in Shansi province, were within 20 miles of the important city of Tating after capturing Lungwangmiao.

F.D.R. IS REMINDED OF '34 WOOL PACT

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 26.—(UP)—R. C. Rich of Burley, Ida, president of the National Wool Growers' association, today reminded President Roosevelt of a promise made in 1934 that the tariff in wool would not be reduced, and charged that concessions in woolen products proposed for inclusion in a reciprocal trade agreement with Canada would not be in keeping with that guarantee.

Rich opened the association's 73d annual convention, which will continue here for three days.

Some administration senators have claimed that the state department, not having listed raw wool among the commodities to be traded in, is keeping the President's word, given in his written statement to Senator O'Mahoney, Wyoming, in 1934, that the tariff on wool would not be reduced.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

PRIMARY EDUCATION

I hope that teachers in the primary grades, the first three years in elementary school, above kindergarten, will be allowed to do their work. I say that because it seems to be stylish these days, in many towns and cities in the world, to consider study and application to study an injustice, an imposition, a stupid idea. There is, among certain articulate groups, the idea that the teacher who insists that a child learn a set unit in any school subject is an old-fashioned teacher. And to be an old-fashioned teacher is to be a highly successful candidate for pension.

And yet, there is only one way for a child to get what the primary grades are set to give him—mastery of the rudiments of study. He must study them until he learns them, thoroughly. There must be no part-way learning here. It won't do to know that two and two are four and overlook the fact that three and two are five. The full set of number combinations must be learned, accurately, completely, so that they come at call at the end of the third year, one hundred percent. Any healthy, normal-minded child can master number facts, reading symbols, and the elements of penmanship, in three full school years. Many can do it in less.

What I am deploring is this attitude: "Let him alone. He will learn if he is exposed to learning." Without wanting to be inconsiderate I must say to that: "He will not." I met an intelligent boy who had been allowed to let reading burst upon his consciousness as the sunlight upon the earth at dawn, but had experienced no such thrill up to the age of twelve. His people expected him to enter junior high school at that age, but he couldn't read. And he did not enter junior high school.

It is good to see children play. Fine to see them free and glad. But there is a time for freedom and a time for bondage. We must all endure bondage for duty's sake, the duty here being to make the most of one's growing time. Children have special periods for certain growths, times when they learn certain things at high speed and with fine memory. The time for the mastery of fundamentals of knowledge is during the first three years of elementary school. This is when the child learns to read, count, and write with the least expenditure of energy, with the greatest joy, with the best possibility for success. This is the time for memory drill. Tables should be learned thoroughly; word sounds, letter sounds should be learned thoroughly and put to use in reading. I am not concerned about what books are used to teach reading, nor how many the beginner reads, but I am deeply concerned about his knowing the sounds of the letters, vowels and consonants, knowing his list of sight words, and instantly recognizing and using them in any situation. For that he needs daily drill—pointed, applied drill.

Old-fashioned? I believe it is. And I don't know any way of gaining this power to learn by reading god books except this way of mass-good books except this way of mas-sooner, and the more completely this is done in school, the better. Please let the primary teachers do their work without penalty of unknown criticism.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped envelope for reply.

CITRUS ASSOCIATION IN OLIVE

OLIVE, Jan. 26.—Serving as president and a director ever since the organization of the Olive Hillside Groves Citrus association, W. A. Greenleaf was returned to the board of directors for the 26th time at an annual meeting of stockholders held yesterday at the packing plant.

At an organization meeting held at the close of the session Greenleaf again was re-elected as president of the board, C. O. Heim as vice president and F. B. Maxwell as secretary and manager. Other directors are J. A. Porter, J. D. Timken and Herman Lemke.

The report of the auditing committee was presented by George Ryan, J. D. Trussel and William Gollin. C. J. Marks, executive secretary of the Orange County Farm Bureau, urged ranchers to oppose the proposed institution of the single tax and the repeal of the sales tax.

Bruce McDaniel, general manager of the M. O. D., gave a survey of economic conditions of the nation, stating that there is not a lack of buying power but a lack of willingness to buy due to uncertainty in the economic field. He said that people with responsibilities have failed to create confidence.

J. A. Porter, who is serving on the board of directors of the California plant to be established at Anaheim, reported that the plant will be in operation at the beginning of the Valencia season.

NURSE IN NORTH

ORANGE, Jan. 26.—A letter received from Miss Vena Jones, city school and county nurse, tells of her arrival in Berkeley, where she is to complete a post graduate health course at the University of California. Miss Jones took a semester's work at the university last year.

SECTION MAKES
PLANS FOR SHOW

ORANGE, Jan. 26.—Plans for the spring garden show staged each year by members of the Orange Woman's club are to be made February 22 at the Woman's clubhouse, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. H. O. Russell, president of the Garden section, the group sponsoring the event. Committees are to be named at that time. The event is to be held April 7 and 8 at the clubhouse.

Blandish Speaks
The speaker of the afternoon was Ted Blandish, Santa Ana landscape architect, who discussed "Spring House Cleaning in the Garden." Blandish spoke in the place of C. H. Robinson, who was to have discussed "Fertilizers."

Pruning operations were described by the speaker, who stated that shrubs should be pruned in relation to the purpose for which they are intended. Some varieties, especially cotoneaster, should not be pruned at all, he said, as they are intended by nature to droop. There are two reasons for pruning, he stated, to reduce the structural problem and to make the shrub fit the surroundings.

It is a mistake, said Blandish, to fertilize the shrub in the hole where it is set out unless fertilizer is well rotted. Fertilizer should be applied at what is called the "drip line" where moisture would drip from the edges, rather than against the stalk or trunk, he said.

Roses may be pruned from November to January, the speaker said, and after trimming is the time roses should be spaced.

Ceremony Planned

Plans were made for some sort of ceremony when the rose garden which is to be planted by section members at the city park is completed. The February luncheon committee includes Mrs. George Seba, chairman, Mrs. Lucien Flippin, assistant chairman, and Mrs. Ray McCarthy, Mrs. Henry Meier, Mrs. R. W. Miller, Mrs. Royce, Mrs. George H. Peterson, Mrs. George Everett Peterson, Mrs. B. F. Richards, Mrs. C. E. Lush, Mrs. E. S. Ross, Mrs. H. O. Russell, Mrs. Ethel Niquette and Mrs. Anna Slater.

Following the meeting a tour of the grounds and gardens at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Royal J. Mueller was enjoyed. Mrs. Mueller has an unusual arrangement of window boxes on the exterior of the home, with special plantings for each exposure. A beautiful outdoor living room, grill and lily pond were among the garden beauties viewed.

New Plants Listed

Mrs. Russell gave a list of what is new in plants obtained from the Eisenbraun nursery. Included in the list were new varieties of philox and the Indian Maid begonia. Mrs. Ray Stedman, vice president of the Garden Study club of Santa Ana; Mrs. George H. Franzen, Mrs. Nels Nelson and Mrs. J. F. Campbell were guests.

The peanut plant, springing from the kernel as a seed, is low and straggling. As the flowers fade, the stem falls over and the seed-pods develop underground.

Richest Girl in the World

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
CONSTANCE CORBY—heroine; richest girl in the world.
BRET HARDESTY—hero; bridge builder.
RONNEY BRANDON—Connie's fiancé.
KATIE BLYN—Connie's "doubt."

Yesterday, Bret and Connie began their married life. Connie wonders if they will always be so completely happy, making a "home" together.

CHAPTER XVIII
ANOTHER six months had passed and Connie and Bret had been married one year.

Into these last months had been crowded almost as much activity as during their honeymoon. They had followed the sun and the restless pursuits of gaiety, the never-ending search for new thrills and excitement that was the custom of the golden world into which Connie had been born.

Newport, Palm Beach, Bermuda, Switzerland, Cannes, Florida, California, Hawaii—a mad race from one to the next, a frantic rush somewhere else again. Or so it seemed to Bret and so now he complained to Connie on this, their first anniversary.

"Why don't we stay put for a change?" he asked. "When are we going to settle down, honey, as we said we would, to the serious business of living? We can't keep this up forever, you know."

He had come into Connie's dressing room, where she sat, putting the last touches to her hair. They were having a dinner that evening in celebration of their anniversary.

This was not the first time Bret had voiced these same thoughts. He seemed to be voicing them more repeatedly lately; more persistently. Connie turned to look at him. He did not look like the man she had married—although Connie did not recognize that fact—any more than she looked as she had when she had pretended to be Katie Blyn. He was just as tall, as broad of shoulder; his eyes were as dark and direct; it was not that he wore immaculate white tie and tails instead of rough tweeds. There was something more; something that did not have to do with outward appearances. For outwardly, at least, Bret had adapted himself very well to his wife's golden world.

"We could keep it up forever, if we chose," Connie answered. She thought how handsome he looked. She hoped, though, he was not going to be difficult tonight of all times. "What's the matter, darling, aren't you?" "Aren't you going to kiss me and tell me how glad you are that you married me just one year ago tonight?"

HE was not convinced by her words; they were ones she had often voiced lately, too; ones with which she put him off, as with her arms and lips.

"We'll talk about it now," he said. He put his hands on her shoulders; his back against the door. "You've got to promise me now, darling, this night of our anniversary, that tomorrow we really will settle matters. Stop moving around, playing, entertaining or being entertained every waking second—practically every sleeping one! We'll settle tomorrow what we will do, where we shall live, about my own work again."

"Of course, darling—if you wish," Connie said. Anything to put him off, what was another promise more or less? She did not see what there was to settle. They were happy, just as they were, having a gorgeous time. If the first rosy glow of their love had been slightly dimmed, they still were very fond of each other, got along beautifully. Why shouldn't they go on as they were? Why should Bret persist in this wanting to settle down—talk about going back to work again?

"I mean a real promise," he persisted now. That grim line had settled about his mouth. He still blocked the door.

"Silly—I just did make you a promise, didn't I? We'll talk it all over tomorrow—if we possibly can." Bret, you're hurting my shoulder—you'll miss my down! Please, darling, let's go down. Our guests will be waiting."

"Sometimes I wonder if I oughtn't to hurt you," he murmured. But he dropped his hands, stepped aside. He knew her promise had not meant anything—"if we possibly can find time," she had said. He knew she would see that there would not be any time on the tomorrow, or the next, or the next.

What was wrong with him? Why did he allow Connie to pull him first this way and that? She had asked him if he was happy, if he was glad he had married her one year ago tonight. She had not noticed that he had not answered. He was not sure of the answer himself, as yet.

He knew now that he had married Constance Corby, the richest girl in the world. He knew what it was beginning to do to him. He was caught in the same golden cage, his wings had been clipped. He had lost his freedom; his own independence. He was not the same man he had been.

Or at least he would not be unless he made Connie listen to him. She thought she could put him off again tomorrow, but she would find she was mistaken.

DRIVE CAREFULLY -SAVE A LIFE-

ON BEING STUBBORN

As an example of pure and unadulterated stubbornness, the case of John Marsh, a carpenter in Cumberland county, Pa., takes the prize along with the board of education. Marsh won't allow his son, Eugene, to be vaccinated, so every time the lad goes to school the teachers send him home.

When the boy fails to attend school, his father is put in jail for failure to comply with the compulsory school attendance law.

He has served 65 straight five-day terms in jail. Every time he completes one sentence, the school board slaps down another complaint and back to his cell goes Marsh.

The carpenter bases his defiance on the fact that one of his nieces went blind and another died shortly after being vaccinated.

Whether Marsh, the school board or the judge is more stubborn is debatable. Little Eugene is the goat, of course. He's not getting any education.

ITEM VETOES

Try to take away from Congress some of its "sacred" prerogatives and the cry which goes up from the Capitol dome sounds like the wail of the banshee.

President Roosevelt tried it the other day when one of his legislative lieutenants pushed through the House an appropriation bill rider giving the President power to veto individual items in an appropriation measure without disproving the entire bill.

It didn't work, of course (22 presidents before Roosevelt have tried it unsuccessfully), because a Senate committee promptly killed the rider.

But give Mr. Roosevelt credit for a commendable attempt. Congress always is sending him regular appropriation bills filled with private claims riders which he disposes but can't veto without killing the whole bill.

Maybe some day a president will get the measure through. At least, the taxpayers may live in hope.

THE ROAD TO THE CEMETERY

When the final and official figures are tabulated, it probably will be found that the automobile death toll in 1937 reached a new all-time record, exceeding the 1936 slaughter with its 37,000 victims.

There is no reason for being surprised at the continued increase. Each year cars are made faster and more powerful, and a dangerous percentage of them become the property of drivers who couldn't be trusted to operate a bicycle safely. Roadways and surfaces are improved, thus offering a new temptation to excessive speed. And the number of accidents in which John Barleycorn is a factor tends to rise steadily.

This doesn't mean that the automobile accident toll cannot be reduced. It can be, but it is going to take action, not words. The individual responsibility of each motorist when he slides behind the wheel of a projectile weighing a ton or two and capable of doing 80 miles an hour, must be driven home. Law enforcement must be strengthened. The "fixer" of traffic violations must be eliminated. It must be realized that driving a car on the public highway is a privilege, not a right to be abused. And license laws must be more stringent. Finally, there must be swift and sure punishment for the reckless or drunken driver.

There are several hundred thousand graves in this country that constitute mute testimony to our past laxity in controlling the automobile. Unless public demand forces a change, you may fill one of the thousands of new graves that, figuratively speaking, will be dug by motorists in the years to come.

DESERVING OF SUPPORT

The dance to be given Thursday night in the Valencia Ballroom on Highway 101, between Santa Ana and Anaheim, is deserving of support of every resident of Orange county.

The funds to be derived from this dance will go to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Similar dances and money raising affairs are being conducted this week throughout the entire United States.

Every civic organization in Orange county and every public spirited citizen is back of the program and dance Thursday night.

Orange county—single-handedly can touch on only one phase of the war on Infantile Paralysis. But it is necessary to fight on all fronts.

The concentration of all the funds raised by this year's celebrations in the hands of a new National Foundation will produce a central national fund from which directed dollars will flow to further the fight against this dread disease on all fronts.

Doors to a happy future will be kept open for many thousands in all parts of the country—Doors that under present conditions are closed tightly. The new Foundation will give directed funds to the Orthopedic centers in every community in the nation. These orthopedic centers need the immediate help of concentrated dollars for the application to practical, specific programs.

If you can't go to Thursday night's dance, be sure and purchase a ticket and thus help a worthy cause.

Sharing the Comforts Of Life

RUGG'S THEORIES OF UNEMPLOYMENT

In the six big books that Rugg writes, which the Santa Ana educators believe are beneficial to the youth to read, he constantly drums into the children and repeats the contention that machines cause unemployment.

In the quotation today, he blames the rapidity of the inventions of machines since 1900 as being the primary cause. His whole solution is to have the adjustment planned by some starchy-eyed educator, or demagogue, as to how these machines should be used.

He fails to realize that as long as there are human wants, there is work to be done. Of course, when Rugg believes in regimentation of wages set by wishes or by voting majority, he cannot see the real cause of unemployment. He cannot see that every new invention requires an adjustment; that it is the slowness of adjustment in balancing the rewards for production of different commodities that causes unemployment.

If we followed the law of supply and demand, as far as wages and profits are concerned, there would be no need of unemployment. But people like to believe that wages and profits can be arbitrary and the man who writes a textbook in order to make a lot of money, has to write one that the majority of people believe.

It certainly is confusing to the children to have the machines (capital) blamed for unemployment when they are the thing that causes employment and the real cause of unemployment, so far as we can find, is never mentioned at all in the six big Rugg books.

WORSE THAN A GIFT

A commentator takes exception to our statement that the Townsend advocates fail to explain by any mathematical way how the recipients of a pension are receiving anything else than a gift.

We see now we were not correct on this statement. It is worse than a gift! Because the recipient must destroy what he receives. He must consume it. If the recipients were each given a valuable cow, worth $200, and they were obliged to destroy this cow within the month, it would be infinitely worse for society than if they were permitted to breed, care for and develop this cow.

We see the error of our statement. It is infinitely worse than a gift.

The correspondent also contends that the two per cent transaction tax would be paid by the seller because of competition. Then it is taken from someone and reduces his purchasing power by an amount equal to the recipients.

The figures, however, on the profits of business show that for the 23 years from 1909 to 1931, the losses were $29,000,000 more than the profits, according to the book, "Rich Man, Poor Man," published by The People's League for Economy Security. Then, if business has been for the last 20 years losing more than it makes, the owners of business, if they are to pay the taxes, would be poorer by this amount, would they not? They would be unable to buy what the Townsend people were able to buy would they not?

It is only the profit in the sale of any item that benefits the seller. The buyer consumes the article but does not consume the profit. But the world is poorer by the amount consumed. It is not consumption that benefits society as a whole but it is the production that benefits society. Consumption does not come out of the air. It has to be produced. Somebody has to work and do without if someone else, other than the man producing it, is to consume it. And when the man consumes who has his consuming power given to him by a tax, then someone else must, of necessity, if simple arithmetic is still true, have less purchasing power by an amount exactly equal to the tax.

The simple repetition of the statement that a two per cent sales tax is paid by the seller and increases production does not, unhappily, make it a fact. We only wish there were some magical way, but reality is still with us and the needs of today are more food, shelter and indulgences, just as they have been all down through the ages.

UNDERMINE DEMOCRACY

"In a free state every man is held and expected to take care of himself and his family," says William Sumner, "to make no trouble for his neighbor, and to contribute his full share to public interests and common necessities. If he fails in this he throws burdens on others. He does not therefore acquire rights against the others. On the contrary, he only accumulates obligations toward them; and if he is allowed to make his deficiencies a ground of new claims, he passes over into the position of a privileged or petted person—emancipated from duties, endowed with claims. This is the inevitable result of combining democratic political theories with humanitarian social theories."

As to the eventual results of this, the author continues by saying, "the result of such inconsistency must surely be to undermine democracy, to increase the power of wealth in the democracy, and to hasten the subjection of democracy to plutocracy; for a man who accepts any share which he has not earned in another man's capital cannot be an independent citizen."

These statements were made some 50 years ago and now seem to be rapidly coming true.

A private in camp during the war called out to a passing khaki-clad figure, "Hey, buddy, give me a match."

A burning match was held out to him. When he raised his eyes to thank the man he was amazed to see he wore the insignia of a general.

"I beg your pardon, sir," said the private. "I didn't mean no disrespect. I didn't notice you was a general."

"That's all right, Buddy," said the General, "but you should thank God I wasn't a second lieutenant."

Believing that information of special interest to many thousands Veterans, their relatives and friends and also to many other people, this article is written concerning Bill H. R. 2904 that passed the house on July 21, 1937, referred to the Senate, was considered by the Senate committee on claims and is now on the Senate calendar. All this was accomplished in the first session of the 75th Congress. In this, the 76th Congress, it has been brought up twice on the unanimous consent calendar and objected to by Senator King, of Utah, both times.

This bill, commonly known as the Travel Pay bill, was passed by both the house and senate during the 74th Congress, only one objection vote, that of a senator from New Jersey, and only to be vetoed by the President on the grounds that the men named in the bill had already been compensated by the awarding to them of a medal and when too late to have the veto message considered by that Congress.

H. R. 2904, if it becomes a law, will give travel pay to those state volunteers who served beyond their period of enlistment in the Philippine Insurrection, namely after April 11, 1899, when the treaty of peace was ratified and when the Spanish-American War, when they were entitled to their discharges. Travel pay was based on the law that existed at that time of one day's rations and pay for each 20 miles to point of enlistment.

In March, 1899, realizing the necessity of keeping those volunteers in the service of the U. S., congress passed a special enactment, that provided for a six months re-enlistment for those men to give the government time to organize and transport relief troops to the Philippines. President McKinley caused the war department to have Governor General E. S. Otis have the volunteers contacted to see if they were willing to stay over their time of enlistment and re-enlist for that six months period if they were paid travel pay from Manila to point of enlistment and then transported to point of enlistment when they could be relieved by U. S. troops yet to be organized. To a man they voted to remain. They were fully aware of the necessity for so doing. There were quite a number of soldiers on special duty at the Palace and the Provost Marshal's office, in Manila, and they were called together by Consul Agent, Edwin Wildman, sent from Hongkong previously in a consular capacity. Mr. Wildman put the same question to us and made the same promises that were made to the troops in the field. To a man, we voted to stay (I was one of those special duty men) and we would have so voted whether promised travel pay as a bonus for staying or not. We were a patriotic bunch.

It was the latter part of the following July before the volunteers' relief commenced. My outfit and the 1st Calif. Vols, were among the first to be relieved yet we put in five months and 10 days after the treaty of peace was ratified, as much overtime as the volunteers who served in Cuba, Porto Rico and the United States served altogether unless they re-enlisted afterward for Philippine service.

At the time the aforesaid vote was taken by the volunteers, they were in the Philippine insurrection and confronted by an estimated 100,000 native soldiers and there were but a few regular regiments in the P. I. at that time and probably 60 per cent of the regular troops were entitled to discharge at the signing of the treaty.

We were not re-enlisted, (the reason I have never learned) but we supposed that we had been considered re-enlisted and officer re-appointed by company, battery troop or regiment.

When finally discharged, many asked for the travel pay promised and were informed by the paymaster who paid them their final such payment. Suit was brought in the U. S. Court of Claims about 1901 for that pay and the decision was that the travel pay promised was not a legal debt of the U. S. because we were never re-enlisted (a mere technicality) but that it was a moral debt of the U. S.

From that time, we have had a bill in every congress for that travel pay but never until the 74th congress did such a bill pass both houses, although it had passed one or the other of the houses several times only to be vetoed by the President on the grounds that the men named in the bill had already been compensated by the awarding to them of a medal and when too late to have the veto message considered by that Congress.

At this time, I have before me the certificate that came with the medal awarded me and which is generally known as the McKinley Congressional Medal. It reads as follows: "War Department, General Depot of the Quartermaster's Department, Washington, D. C., October 20, 1908. Sir: I am directed by the Quartermaster General of the Army to forward by registered mail, to the address given below, a bronze medal No. 1759, which was authorized by the Act of Congress approved June 29, 1906, to be presented to those men of the volunteers and certain of the regular troops of the Army of the Philippines who were enrolled and enlisted for the War with Spain, and who served beyond the term of their enlistments to help suppress the Philippine Insurrection. In a cablegram dated July 1, 1899, to General Otis at Manila, the President of the United States conveyed the following expression of appreciation for the military service thus rendered. 'The President desires to express in the most public manner, his appreciation of the lofty patriotism shown by the volunteers and regulars of the 8th Army Corps, in performing service through severe campaigns and battles against the insurgents in Luzon, when, under the terms of their enlistments, they would have been entitled to discharge upon the ratification of the treaty with Spain. This action on their part was noble and heroic. It will stand forth as an example of self sacrifice and public consecration which have ever characterized the American soldier. In recognition thereof I shall recommend to congress that a special medal of honor be given to the officers and soldiers of the 8th Army Corps who performed this great duty voluntarily and enthusiastically for their country—William McKinley.' Very respectfully, M. Grey Zallinski, Major and Quartermaster, U. S. Army, in charge of Depot. Name of Soldier Charles E. Dixon, Military Service Bat. D 1st Cal. H. Arts Vols., Post Office address Los Angeles, Cal."

We were considered noble and heroic then, yet after congress recognized the merit of our claims, the President vetoed the bill, on the strength of the medal (worth probably 35c) and that despite the fact that it was estimated that travel pay to the volunteers would only average $400 each. Congress saw to it that a much larger bonus was paid to the World War Veterans and one which was not promised. Power in numbers.

It is a well known fact that officers and enlisted men, in the service of the U. S. army cannot enroll and enlist themselves. If necessary to be done, it is a governmental duty.

I have in mind that the votes taken and the promises made by agents of the U. S. army officers and the only consular agent in the Philippines at that time and the agreement to stay in the service by the volunteers and some of the regular troops constituted a verbal contract which is as binding as a written contract, if proven. All of the above argument in our behalf has been proven in congress and its committees repeatedly so that it was a verbal contract and all that went to complete its carrying out was the re-enlistment referred to by the U. S. Court of Claims (duty of the government) we should have that bonus because we surely carried out our part of the contract, which is acknowledged in the body of the certificate above mentioned.

If we are ever to enjoy that bonus, it will have to come soon. Half of those volunteers are dead and the rest are old men. We are dying at the rate of about one per month and an investigation made a few years ago disclosed the following death rate of the Spanish War veteran and that of the men who did not serve in the army at that time to be 33 per 1000 as against 16 per 1000.

I sincerely hope that this article will be of some interest to its readers and informative to those readers who were not posted on the subject.

Probably about 90 per cent of American parents desire for their children with regard to the teaching of communism and other forms of government, past, present and future, is that all such teaching be done by thoroughly informed instructors who have a whole-hearted belief in our institutions. No one believes that our government is perfect. It is not nor ever can be. Neither is any other government without fault, but our constitution provides the means of making, without bloodshed, any changes as a radical minority might choose. To be sure, but any change for which there is a sufficiently large demand. Most of our adult American population wishes (and they pay the bills) to have our form of government taught with respect for and faith in its present merits, its past achievements and its future possibilities. If any communist or near communist or any person believing in any form of dictatorship should be on any of our school faculties he should teach athletics or mathematics or something else in no way related to the subject

News Behind the News

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Mr. Roosevelt beamed on his house leaders in the privacy of his study during the last call. He congratulated Speaker Bankhead and Floor Director Rayburn for expediting his program.

Senate leaders were present. They did not miss the point. If no further word had been spoken, both Mr. Garner, the V. P. and Floor Director Barkley, would have been duly impressed by the inferences that the senate filibuster over the lynching bill was beginning to get on the President's nerves. But there is reason to believe some further words were spoken, and that they may have approached 212 degrees Fahrenheit.

What was agreed upon, if anything, is still a deep dark secret, and may remain so, but none of the knowing would be surprised if the lynching bill is dropped—not like a hot potato, of course, but sort of eased back into a dark corner like a wornout piece of furniture which the official family is glad to forget.

First good excuse to get rid of it will probably be taken.

No one knows who is most to blame for tying up the senate for weeks. The leaders knew they would cause a filibuster if they brought the bill up. The filibusters merely took the only means left to them to block anti-lynching bills, same means used for the past 50 years and undoubtedly to be used for the next 50.

The filibusters seem to have enjoyed it. Their inside polls indicated they had only 25 votes when they started. Now they claim nearly 40 (neither figure will be published officially, because both are less than the majority needed to beat the bill legitimately.)

The fight has strengthened anti-New Deal senators in the south and embarrassed New Dealers from southern states, while the northern New Dealers generally failed to make much political hay out of it for themselves. Generally the whole affair is regarded as a political fiasco from all angles.

A top New York publicity man is getting long odds betting friends that Roosevelt will run for a third term in 1940 and will be defeated. His employees pay him $55,000 a year to know what the public is thinking for publicity purposes.

Some senators still suspect their telephone wires were tapped by Ickes Hawks, but cannot find enough proof to come out and say so. Truth is it is difficult for anyone to tap a senatorial wire at the source. Wires are strung inside the walls and are easily available to tappers only

A newsman here called Presidential Secretary Steve Early out of bed about 3 a. m. to ask if it were true, as published in another paper, that Mrs. Roosevelt had slightly bobbed her hair.

General Hugh S. JOHNSON Says

TULSA, Okla.—L'aiglon bleu the Blue Eagle's posthumous fledgling—or maybe better, son-in-law, is just taking off for a trial hop right here in my own State of Oklahoma.

They have here a wages-and-hours law complete with codes which they call a little N.R.A. It has no personalized big bad wolf as administrator. It is operated by a State Industrial Commission. Instead of the N.R.A. goldfish bowl bearing, special "Conference Committees" of industry and labor recommend codes and the Commission takes 'em or leaves 'em.

They operate only on intra-state industries—cleaners and dyers, retail trade, hotels, restaurants, office buildings and filling stations, so far. This was the field in which N.R.A. came to grief. Ninety-five per cent of all complaints of non-compliance and disputes in N.R.A. were in these industries.

They never will respond to a national wages-and-hours code. They have no national organization and conditions within each industry are too adverse. On the other hand, in some of these industries there are places, the necessity for reform is greatest of all. Sweat-shop conditions, child labor, unfair practices and racketeering were worse in some of these industries than anywhere else. After a bitter experience, N.R.A. came to the conclusion that the only solution of this difficult problem was state codes under state laws. This new Oklahoma law is the most ambitious attempt that has come to my attention. In principle it will prove pleasing to old N.R.A. fans, but in detail it won't.

The shortest maximum week in the whole schedule is 48 hours. No "spreading the work" there. This runs up to 59 hours in hotels and filling station, practically 7 days of 81-2 hours or 6 ten hour days. It has regional differentials with a vengeance. Hours are longer and wages lower in towns of 10,000 population or less than in towns of from 10,000 to 40,000 population and the difference is much greater as compared with large cities. The wage differential is as much as 35 per cent in some industries.

The minimum wage for a maximum of government; and he should exercise his "Freedom of Speech" on some other topic and with some other audience than the immediate youngsters entrusted to him by his bosses who pay the bills and so are entitled to get what they want for their money.

In other words, "Don't bite the hand that feeds you."

200 WOMEN ATTEND BUSINESS GROUP'S 'INTERNATIONAL' FETE

That the definite advance of the northern hemisphere was largely due to the prominence given to women and their activities, was one of the points brought out last night in an excellent talk given by Dr. John Brown Mason as finale of an International Night program staged by Orange county's Business and Professional Women in the educational building of Santa Ana First Christian church.

Planned by Mrs. Joseph Peterson of Orange, president of the county federation B. P. W., the affair stressed the international theme in every detail. Approximately 200 women were present to enjoy the clever affair. Pullerton club made the clever dolls representing all the varied nations, and gracing the dinner tables, with Uncle Sam and quaint colonial maids and men for the speaker's table.

Miss Nell Pister of the Orange club read the club collect and Marie Madison Daugherty, county music chairman, led in singing "America" and later on the program led the Orange Women's chorus in a song group. Other program features included violin solos by Charlotte Stafford accompanied by Anne Ulseth.

Mrs. Una L. Winter, past president of Southern district B. P. W. came from Upland for the occasion, and talked on the Susan B. Anthony Memorial tree in Sequoia National park, to be dedicated June 26. Her reference to the great part taken by Miss Anthony in the advance of woman's place in the world, gave the guest speaker, Dr. Mason, opportunity for a gracious tribute in his talk later in the evening.

With "The Chessboard of Europe" as subject, Dr. Mason gave a graphic word picture of the present situation in the nations of the continent, and spoke of the blend of races, especially in Austria and Czechoslovakia. He was presented by Mrs. Laura McNaught, president of Santa Ana club.

Miss Dorothy Decker of the hostess club, had aided in planning the program, and was introduced as Orange county's delegate this year to the post of president of Southern district, since the present vice-president, Miss Mabel Elliott, has withdrawn her name. She voiced formal welcome to the guests.

Miss Florence Fitzgerald, San Diego, district president, responded to this welcome. Introductions included also the presidents of county clubs, Florence Boosey, Orange; Myrtle Henry, Anaheim; Mary Campbell, Pullerton; Ada Purpus, Laguna Beach; Laura McNaught, Santa Ana; Jean Ema, Wrycende Maedenu, Santa Ana; and Lily Lahti of the newly federated Newport Harbor club, with Dewey Neumeier, Santa Ana, Altrusa, and several special guests including Harry Williamson, mayor of Newport; Joseph Peterson, husband of the county president, and husbands of various clubwomen.

Rumrich confessed, Hoover said, that he was receiving money from purported secret agents of a foreign government, for supplying them with information on the coast artillery, other fortifications and mobilizations in connection with the Panama Canal Zone, where he once served.

Glaser's Confession Substantiated
Rumrich told agents that the military secrets were written in code and turned over to Hoffman or others employed on ships docking at New York, and the ships would clear port the next day carrying the espionage documents.

Rumrich, Hoover said, confessed he was getting for foreign agents information on two new aircraft carriers now under construction in navy yards.

A plot had been worked out, Hoover said, to lure the commanding officer of a New York military base to a hotel through use of forged orders, instruct him to bring to the hotel "certain important military secrets," and steal them from him.

The plan was upset by the F.B.I. arrests.

Hoover said the contents of the spy communications seized by agents would not be made public.

TRAFFIC PARLEY COUNTY CREDIT GAINS IMPETUS UNION OPENS

Plans for a public meeting with appointed delegates from service clubs and civic organizations with members of the traffic safety commission in the Santa Ana city council chambers at 2 p. m. March 14, were bolstered today as delegates signified intention of attendance at the meeting to Elmer Heidt, chairman.

To date, 16 delegates have said they would attend the sessions. These include representatives of the Rotary club, the Business and Professional Women's club, the American Legion, the Exchange club and Judges James L. Allen, H. G. Ames, and Kenneth E. Morrison. Other clubs and groups have been contacted by the commission and have expressed a desire to cooperate but have not yet appointed delegates.

Problems of Group
Chief business of the meeting is to acquaint the public with the problems facing the commission and the appointment of sub-committees from the delegates to assist the commission in solution of traffic difficulties, according to Heidt.

"The commissioners themselves cannot devote the time necessary to carry out the program we have outlined," Heidt said, "but we want to sub-divide the work and to assist in the direction of the program."

"We feel that the problem of traffic safety is a vital one and that the service clubs and civic organizations will be given a splendid opportunity to make Santa Ana and the county a better and safer place in which to live. We feel sure they will avail themselves of this opportunity."

Special Student Rates Set For Ballet Program

Because of the wide-spread interest among young people in the Trudi Schoop ballet program which Musical Arts club will close its artist series on Thursday night, March 3, the Behymer-Wilson management today announced special student rates on tickets for the event.

Prices have been cut exactly in half on all tickets for students not only of this city, but of all Orange county schools according to Clarence Gustlin, local manager of the artist series. Tickets already have gone on sale at Santa Ana Book store, where the community's young people may make their selection of seats.

Trudi Schoop and her Dancing Comedians will come to Santa Ana fresh from triumphs clear across the continent on this, their third American tour. The ballets range from the subtly satirical to broad farce comedy, and each artist of the troop is well qualified to aid and abet Trudi Schoop herself in her madcap merriment.

The Orange County Employees Credit Union will be ready to operate by next Tuesday, it was announced today by J. Arthur Anderson, of the county assessor's office, president of the organization.

Incorporated under state credit union laws and just equipped with a permit from the state department of credit unions, the local union will function along the lines of other credit unions already established in the county, such as the teachers credit union and postal employees credit union.

County employees will be entitled to purchase $5 voting shares, one to each employee, known as Class A shares, and as many Class B shares, at the same price, as they wish to invest in. Both classes of shares participate in dividends of the union, obtained from loaning the capital and the deposits to members of the group. Members can deposit funds with the credit union, drawing four per cent interest.

The interest rate on loans made to members, and the dividend rate, are fixed by the board of directors. The board consists of Anderson, Belle J. Spangler, Lester H. Schmelzer, Laura Joiner, Laura B. Bettis, Grace E. Lansing, J. E. Lloyd, David R. McMillan and Lynn B. Wallace.

FRENCH POLICY IS RAP AT NAZISM

and Delbos was her spokesman. He spoke with clarity and force. He said that France would not abdicate her interests in central Europe. He said that she wanted peace but not peace at any price. He said that she wanted disarmament but that until it came, she would keep a powerful army.

He revealed that Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in a letter to Premier Camille Chautemps assured France of Britain's faithfulness to French-British cooperation.

He told the crowded chamber: "Some here propose a policy of abdication. They insist that France withdraw behind her physical frontiers. But that is contrary to France's mission, her tradition, her commitments, her friendships, so the government resolutely rejects it."

While the chamber listened intently, mindful of the situation in Austria and the fears in some nations that Germany might soon interest herself in the German minority in Czechoslovakia, Delbos said: "The world knows that France has been ready for disarmament. But so long as there is rearmament France is determined to maintain her army at a high level."

As regards Britain, he said that France was in closest contact with her; that Britain was informing her fully of conversations with Germany and Italy.

As to demands of left wing elements in the government's own coalition, he rejected their demands for active intervention in Spain and China and said: "France cannot play the role of worldgendarme. We must engage prudently but never capitulate before force."

Delbos and Premier Camille Chautemps were the main defenders of their foreign policy, and on their expositions of policy depended the government's life in the confidence vote.

OVER THE TRANSOM

Word just filters through about a thrill that C. W. (Alliance Mutual) Harrison handed his friend, C. W. (Hill & Hill) "Pop" Hill on a recent week-end. The former invited the latter to a trip in Harrison's boat. As they neared the jetty (outgoing), Harrison, who had the wheel, suddenly told Hill to take it over. "And here I was," Hill sighed, "handling a boat for the first time in my life, and expected to navigate a jetty-bound channel!"

What could be more appropriate than the fact that W. D. Or that Mrs. Rosie North lives on Sunlight street in Anaheim, Mrs. I. E. Lemon on Lemon street, Orange, and Mrs. Bertha Lemons on Poma street? Or again that G. F. FRIEND OF PRISONER TO WORK OUT CITY FINE TO PAY DEBT

Establishing something new in court annals, City Judge J. G. Mitchell yesterday granted to William F. Wade, 29, 151 North Pine, Orange, the privilege of letting a friend work out Wade's fine.

Wade, arrested February 8 by Officers George Boyd and Ernest Zimmerman, in Santa Ana, on a drunk driving charge, was assessed a fine of $150.

Court Agrees
"A friend of mine owes me some money and isn't working enough to pay me," Wade told the judge. "I'm working. My friend told me he would be willing to work in the city parks in my place to pay off his debt to me. How about it? He'd be able to pay off about $60 a day, then."

"Yes, you're right," the judge replied. "I'll give you a work order for 10 days to begin with, then we'll see about more later. That will pay off $80. Tell him to bring his lunch every day as he might get hungry. The park officials will give him plenty of work every minute."

any hazard that might come upon an Atlantic fleet is desirable. But I do not think the country can afford it."

Endorses Program
Rear Admiral William G. Dubose has testified that construction of a separate Atlantic fleet would cost $3,200,000,000.

Edison said he "wholly and sincerely" endorsed the recommendations made by the high naval officers who preceded him in support of President Roosevelt's billion-dollar naval expansion program calling for 47 fighting ships, 22 auxiliaries, and nearly 1000 airplanes.

"In the face of all the international conditions, it is certain that our naval needs are for parity in strength with other naval powers," Edison said. "Naval strength should not consist of combatant vessels alone, but it must comprise adequate personnel to man the ships, and the active material readiness of every unit of the fleet." Rep. Ralph O. Brewster, R. Me., asked Edison whether he knew that Japan is building battleships bigger than treaty limits.

"I am satisfied," said Edison, "that Japan is building some ships but I don't know whether they are 42,000 tons or less."

OLSON ATTACKS STATE HEADS AS 'ONE-SIDED'

Playing the present state administration for its alleged "domination by special interests," Senator Culbert Olson, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, spoke last night before more than 200 members of the Orange County Assembly of Democrats in Junior college hall.

He referred particularly to recent action in referring the Olson Tidelands Oil bill back to the people for a referendum vote, after the legislature had adopted it as an urgency measure. This bill referred particularly to the taking of oil from the tidelands pool at Huntington Beach.

Raps Webb Decisions
"This tidelands oil pool has been known to exist for more than 15 years and for all that time it has been drained of its oil and gas for the sole benefit of private interests and the principal benefit of one of the largest oil companies in America," Olson said.

He charged that "this drainage of the oil and gas from Huntington Beach tidelands pool has been permitted because we do not have an administration that is willing to prevent it."

A few independent operators, he said, have been prosecuted for tapping the pool, this prosecution being conducted by the state. He charged that decisions of Attorney Gen. U. S. Webb, in connection with the tidelands oil pool, had been biased.

Referring to his tax platform Olson declared that it is his belief that "taxes should be levied on and collected from those individuals and resources best able to pay." He went on record as opposing the sales tax because "it is a tax on consumption, the poor and those whose incomes are not sufficient for subsistence."

"Democracy on Defense"
Urging election of a Democratic governor for California, Olson said that Democracy is on the defensive throughout the world, with military dictators "in the saddle" in other countries.

To preserve Democracy in America he declared, Democracy must be made to work successfully for the general welfare of all the people. He hailed the "New Deal" as the first step toward successful operation of Democracy and said that to carry on the movement it is necessary for California to have an administration in sympathy with the national administration.

Before the general meeting of members of the Assembly officers of the organization met with directors and outlined an intensive membership campaign to be launched. H. C. Head, chairman of the assembly, announced that the organization now has approximately 1000 members.

MAN WHO FLED LAW HERE FROM HOSPITAL WINDOW, CAPTURED BY G-MEN ON KANSAS CITY BUS

William Boyd, 26, whose true name is Karl Clark Strain, and whose real life story reads like a fictional melodrama of a public nuisance, was captured by three agents of the federal bureau of investigation at gun's point yesterday while riding in a Kansas City bus.

Boyd, or Strain, with a record of many clashes with the law and dashes from the law, is the man who escaped through window at Orange county hospital several years ago while being held in custody of county authorities for federal authorities at Los Angeles. Officials believe he may have feigned illness prior to his removal from county jail to hospital.

Talks Good Fight
Strain, described by G-men in circulars, as "a conditional release violator, impersonator, auto thief, gunman, kidnaper, highwayman, musician, mechanic, airplane pilot, motorcycle rider, forger, escape artist and window washer," was captured when Dwight Brantley, special agent in charge of the Kansas City federal office, held a gun "on" him.

"Okay, I know I'm caught, but if I had a gun, I'd have made you kill me," he told the three G-men. His first brush with the law after his release from Alcatraz Island, came September 26, 1937, J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI, announced at Washington, D. C. He wounded a San Diego officer who attempted to stop him while he drove a stolen car, escaped to Tijuana, was captured after a gun battle, feigned tuberculosis, then escaped through a window.

During the past six months, Strain has done the following, FBI officials said: Kidnaped a San Diego officer; stolen a Fort Worth, Tex., car; forged checks at Texarkana, Ark., after stealing checks from passengers of a wrecked car; battled Mexican police; passed forged checks in Arkansas, Iowa and Illinois after robbing victims; of checks; married a girl in Jessup, Georgia.

PLAYERS TO END SEASON TODAY

Meeting with enthusiastic approval of a large crowd last night in the Ebbl auditorium, the Community play, "The Late Christopher Bean," is expected to attract a capacity house tonight when the curtain rises at 8:15 o'clock.

Seats have been reserved for patrons from a distance, including Los Angeles, San Diego and Long Beach. Tonight's play will close the season of major productions for the players' association, the final event of the programmed year coming as the annual Southern California one act play tournament to be staged here in April.

In the meantime will come the evening of one acts when the four prize winning plays in the original one-act playwriting contest conducted by the players' association, will be presented on the Ebbl stage by capable casts now in rehearsal. The date for this event has been set for Thursday night, March 10.

Talent Scout Here
RKO studios of Hollywood will be represented in tonight's first-nighter audience for Santa Ana Community Players presentation of "The Late Christopher Bean" in Ebbl clubhouse, it was learned today.

Harold Gerson of RKO casting office will be here to see the play from the viewpoint of a talent scout. In all probability he will have a studio party with him, it was said.

BEARS TAKE FIRST SERIES FROM S. C.

LOS ANGELES.—(UP)—The California Golden Bears maintained their tie with Stanford for the conference lead today and were assured of victory in a four-game series with Southern California for the first time in eight years. The last game is scheduled tonight.

California won its third consecutive game from the Trojans last night, leading throughout to a final score of 49-40. After five minutes the Bears were out in front 12-4 and left the court at half-time leading 25-14.

Southern California rallied several times in the second half, but the Bears nipped each threat and the margin never was lower than eight.

Three Californians — Chalmers, Carlisle and Garetson — went to the showers for personal fouls in the final stages of the game. Nineteen fouls were marked against the Bears and 14 against the Trojans, most of them in a furious last five minutes.

Elizabeth Louise Lotze, 15-months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. J. Lotze, 1427 West Malvern avenue, Fullerton, passed away unexpectedly last evening at the Cottage hospital. She is survived by her parents; one brother, Howard C. Lotz; paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Lotze, of Fullerton, and maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Hale of Placentia.

Funeral services will be conducted from the Hilgenfeld funeral home in Anaheim Tuesday at 2 o'clock. The Rev. U. S. Schauer, pastor of the Salem Evangelical church of Anaheim, will officiate and burial will be made in Loma Vista cemetery.

James S. T. Leavitt, 80, a resident of Anaheim for more than 30 years, passed away yesterday afternoon at his home, 883 North Los Angeles street, after an extended illness. He was a native of Maine and moved to Washington where he resided for some time before coming to California.

He is survived by his widow, Meda R. Leavitt; one step-son, John R. Reed, of Anaheim; two sisters, Mrs. Sarah T. Shaw, of Webster, Mass., and Mrs. Annie R. Kelley, of Worcester, Mass.

Funeral services will be conducted from the Hilgenfeld funeral home Monday at 2 o'clock. The Rev. Birney S. Hudson, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, will officiate and burial will be made in the Anaheim cemetery.

Through the Garden Gate

With MARAH ADAMS

The gate into the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Stevens at Tustin leads to such varied beauty that it would be difficult to say "Here is the most beautiful spot in these gardens." The Stevens home was built 50 years ago and the grounds and gardens reflect the mellowed loveliness that only long establishment can give.

The new and the old, tropics and deserts, the South Sea Islands and Australia, Japan and the jungles, all have made a definite contribution to the garden and in the making of the contributions, have taken away nothing of a typically Southern California atmosphere.

Azaleas and camellias are now in blossom along shaded paths where the graceful forms of Kensington palm tree ferns from the Hawaiian Islands, away over the masses of azaleas—fairly flowers, so delicate and light, that it seems they must take wings.

Two rare Japanese magnolia trees have attained a generous spread of branches and are covered, one with white flowers, lavender edged, and the other with blossoms slightly darker. There are scarcely any leaves on the branches and the flowers are slightly smaller than the magnolia blossoms so often found in Southern California. The effect of the unbelievable blossoms on the bare branches is indeed one of unreality.

Rocks in the cactus garden were gathered by the Stevens from many parts of the world, blues, reds and other vivid colors in the stones furnishing an attractive border. There is a walled garden, lily pools, an orchid house, tiny violas and giant pansies—and the birds.

In a great aviary are black birds with yellow breasts, two big macaws, a parrot so tame it comes to his whistle, birds from many lands. There is a friendly, fashion and furnishing an example of international relations and friendships.

Then there is the Fiji Island dove that bows, A chunky, brown dove with a ruffled appearance and the most delightful manners. At Mrs. Stevens' approach, the polite bird inclines not only his head but his body, until his feathers describe a circle over his top-knot. He found out that his bowing was appreciated, it is said, and so he keeps in practice.

Paul Howard has had practice in cutting the heavy growth of vines from the Orange city hall. He has done the work for several years. The work he worked steadily for eight days and has just finished. The building is three stories high and in making the neat border of bare wall at the top of the structure, he stood at the top of a swaying 50-foot ladder for more hours than most persons would care to think about.

The vine covering the city hall is the "figus ripens" Howard says, a member of the fig family, and at certain times of the year, small figs are to be found hidden among the leaves. The fruit is not edible. Howard uses two-handled shears for the greater part of the work but in clipping near the front entrance where the ladder must be placed, he uses a pair of shears, he uses only a pair of shears for the two-handled shears cause the ladder to vibrate too much.

Mrs. Perry Grout, Fairhaven avenue, achieved the unusual recently in a corsage of cabbage leaves and Cecil Bruner roses. To be sure the leaves were from the flowering cabbage but they were very like those of their pezelean relatives, white with light purple edges.

Mrs. E. J. Kuhne, who is in charge of the Santa Ana Toy Loan library tells how to make a "bean-vine teepee" to be used as a play-house by girls and boys. She says, "Make a circle six feet across and space the circle with a piece of twine. Plant two bean seeds in each of the inches apart and leave a space for a door. Buy laths and place them 18 inches apart and bring them to a central point and tie. Place stakes between poles which will stand two feet above ground."

Mrs. Kuhne is crocheting bean pods of colored string. She says that already she has many requests for the bags as soon as they are completed.

Future Is Planned By Beet Growers

California's sugar beet industry has been given a thorough "going over" by leading growers, working in co-operation with University of California experts, in an effort to make present culture practices even more effective. In a series of meetings held in the leading sugar beet localities, the need for crop rotation to insure soil fertility and the stabilization of acreage was stressed.

It was announced at the meetings that the Imperial Valley crop had been planted at a time that would insure its maturity by May. This will permit of a longer cutting season and will likewise permit the Santa Ana refinery to open earlier. It was likewise announced that some of the California beets are providing a sugar recovery of 342 pounds to the ton, on an average, which is a higher figure than that of other beet-producing sections of the West.

WAY TO GARDEN IN BOX IS TOLD

Every one can garden the window box way, whether he lives in a suburb or a tall apartment dwelling. And now is the time to be thinking of it, for boxes can be constructed during the winter weeks so they will be ready for the earliest start in the spring.

For an ordinary single window, a box 21-2 feet long, 8 inches deep and 10 inches wide is a good size. If made of cypress, it will last well, and cost less than a dollar to build. Where large of multiple windows demand great length, the other dimensions may be larger in proportion, or boxes for each window made.

Remember that window boxes are a decoration for the house. They should harmonize with it, and improve its appearance. The boxes should usually be painted to match the dominant color of the house, or of its trim. The flowers will look best if they make a contrasting note, providing an accent of color.

BORE 1/2 HOLES IN BOTTOM 6" APART FOR DRAINAGE COVER HOLES WITH BROKEN POTTERY BEFORE FILLING.

Perhaps the finest of all window box flowers are petunias, because they blossom constantly throughout the summer, and provide so interesting a variety of color, form and habit. The balcony type petunias, which produce trailing vine-like stems, make graceful festoons which drape from the boxes.

Tall nasturtiums, particularly the new doubles, including Golden Gleam, and its hybrids, give the same effect as the balcony type petunias; and they are excellent window box subjects. Fragrant flowers, such as methiella bicoloris, mignonette, ten-weeks stocks, and dwarf snapdragons are doubly attractive. The list of flowers that can be grown in window boxes embraces almost the entire seed catalog.

Boxes which spend most of the day in shade offer a special problem. If the shade is that of a building, perhaps only foliage plants can be grown, such as ferns, fancy leaved caladiums, crotons, rubber plants and other florists' subjects. If there is some sun, tuberous rooted begonias will probably do well. Impatiens, the Zanzibar balsam, bearing flowers of salmon or rose on bushy plants 18 inches tall, are excellent in semi-shaded places. Violas thrive in partial shade, and the list of flowers which will do well increases as the amount of sun is enlarged.

Rich soil, of the type which florists call potting soil, should be used in window boxes, for there is so little of it to feed the flowers, it needs abundant plant food; apply at rate of one level tablespoonful for one square foot of soil.

GARDEN AND HOME

By Mrs. H. Cardosa Sloan, Corona Del Mar

Being sound advice and interesting comment on what to plant and how to care for Orange county gardens.

THE QUEEN OF FLOWERS

(Concluded)

Rose Culture. There seems to be a firmly fixed idea that roses can be grown successfully only in a "loving" soil, one that clings closely to the spade. Perhaps they do grow better in a soil that holds them lovingly, not to say firmly; but what about Florida, where roses set in abundant bloom all over the state, in soil that is often almost pure sand? The truth is, roses are far more adaptable than most people think and can be grown in almost any soil if other conditions are favorable.

The first preparation of a rose bed should be as thorough as possible. Remember that your rose bed will probably not be dug up again for many years and this is your only chance to improve the subsoil, so get it in the best possible condition. The ground should be trenched or at least spaded to a depth of two feet. Spread three or four inches of well-rotted manure, spade this in and rake the bed level. Water, and let settle before planting.

In setting the roses, dig a hole about a foot wide and a couple of feet deep, put in 7 or 8 inches of rotted cow manure in the bottom of the hole, tread this down firmly. Then put some 6 inches of fine soil without manure above this, and tread it down. Then plant your rose bush.

When setting bare root roses be sure the roots are not dry. If they are, soak them thoroughly before planting. Set the plant on a little mound of soil, so that the crown of the bush is about two inches below the surface, spread the roots out with unmanured soil. Tamp it down well, dig a basin around the bush and water thoroughly. When dry enough, cultivate the top two inches.

As to the location of your rose bed, the one thing roses will not stand is hard wind. They must be sheltered from strong breezes, yet they must have a free circulation of air. They should have sun at least half of the day, the nearer to full sun the better for most of them. The ordinary rose bush is seldom ornamental save for its blooms, and as roses are very clean and grow better than a family group, it is well to indulge them in the admirable quality by giving them a place of their own in the garden. The exceptions are the spring blooming roses of the old type, which are left to grow unpruned, like the Austrian Briar and the lovely Harrison's Yellow, which can be used to advantage among the garden shrubbery. Try to keep away from the greedy roots of trees and large shrubs. If this is impossible, you will have to make up for the disadvantage by more intensive care and feeding.

Fertilizing. Roses will struggle along with little attention, but their gallant spirit under adverse conditions should make us the more desirous of doing our best for them. They like to be well fed, but do not make the mistake of over-fertilizing them the first year.

Cow manure is perhaps the best fertilizer. A 2 or 3 inch mulch over the bed will furnish food, keep down weeds, and avoid the necessity of cultivating as well. During the growing and blooming season, additional food may be given, cow, sheep or chicken manure, or a commercial fertilizer, or a pure and heavenly beauty one hardly dreams to see this side the pearly gates.

It is to be hoped that rose culture will increase in our California gardens, not only in beds of the trimmed hybrid roses, but that we will seek out the roses that can be left to grow in their natural beauty, and the climbers that trail gracefully down banks, or billow over fence and trellis, and that in all the countryside

There are, of course, the aphids. But one or two prompt sprayings with a good nicotine solution will finish them off. Even a strong type spray from the garden hose will often check them. They are likely to be several visitations of the aphid family, so even if you get rid of the first lot, don't be surprised at their reappearance and be ready for it. About a quarter inch mulch of ground tobacco stems, spread on the ground and eventually to be worked into the soil, will help keep aphids away.

Another excellent and most effective method of disposing of aphids is to use Vigoro.

HOW TO PLANT GARDEN AREAS

In discussing flowers in garden at a meeting of a class in landscape design at the Willard high school Monday evening, Frances Selover Wilson, asked, "Who does not love flowers and thrill to a myriad of rainbow hues? But we must remember that color in a garden should be used with some what the same care as in the interiors of our homes or in our dress. Too much vibrant color becomes tiresome and monotonous and we long for relief and restfulness. So in planning our home areas, the use of flowers must be limited to definite locations in the garden."

"There are several different ways of using flowers in the landscape. Each type of architecture calls for a garden style in keeping with the house. But broadly speaking, there are four ways of handling flowers in the garden which will no doubt cover many individual cases."

Where To Plant
"Flowers in the public area—if used at all—should be subordinate to the shrubbery background of green, just a touch of color here and there unless the house is of the cottage type. Then the flower garden in front will be appropriate. But it is difficult to keep flowers at the best all the time. So it is best to restrict the flowers—especially annuals—to some other parts of the garden."

"Flowers as bedding materials such as used in the old fashioned knot garden are becoming popular with the revival of interest in the Elizabethan and Shakespearian gardens. The designs of the knot gardens dominate the picture and are pleasing in themselves even when the flowers are not in bloom. This is also true of any well planned formal layout."

Cut Flower Garden
"In the private area of the garden, flowers are often used in pots or in flower bays. If flowers are needed for the house, these bays should be planned to give the necessary color for the interior touch in arrangements. However, the best plan, where cut flowers are desired, is to design a cut flower garden as a separate unit cut off from the living area of the garden. This cut flower garden should include roses, hydrangeas and the flowers carefully handled as to color and rotation of bloom, this garden is often lovely enough to be adjacent to the private area. Otherwise, it should be included in the service area along with the vegetable and fruit trees."

"Flowers, therefore, may be used as accent material in the front garden, for bedding purposes, in flower bays, or in the cut flower garden. While considering annual and perennial flowers, care should be taken to include some of the many flowering shrubs in the garden. These give a touch of color to the shrubbery border and are often useful as cut flowers, as well."

PLANT FOOD
Modern plant foods have so completely replaced the old fertilizing materials that everyone should know how to use them. The chief difference is that they are quickly soluble and available to plants and thus instead of being spaded deep into the soil, as in the case of manures, they should be applied after the soil is ready and mixed close to the roots which are to use them.

The standard rate of a first plant food application to lawns, and garden plots in general, is 4 pounds to 100 square feet.

The rose, fragrant and lovely, will reign truly the Queen of Flowers.

Appointment of Goodcell and the other county members of the statewide group was announced today by F. W. Marlow, Southern California director of the FHA. Marlow said all appointees were chosen from realty boards affiliated with the California Real Estate association.

Other Orange county appointees to the committee are: Bryan Bosick, Anaheim; Harry H. Crooke, Fullerton; Owen A. Williams, Laguna Beach; and P. A. Palmer, Newport Harbor.

Knotty pine is the ideal interior finish for homes and week-end cottages. Walls of this material combine decoration, insulation and sturdy construction at moderate cost. Advice on the use of Knotty pine for interior decoration may be obtained at the Barr Lumber company.

QUESTIONS Before the House

By Wilbur Barr

If you are planning to build with the assistance of a Federal Housing Administration guaranteed loan all the details of standard choice of proper materials will be taken care of for you by the F. H. A. inspectors under the ruling of the P. H. A. booklet "Minimum Construction Requirements for New Dwellings located in the Southern California district." You can obtain this booklet free by applying to your lumber dealer. Under the heading of "Lumber" you will find the following:

"All softwood lumber shall bear the official grade-mark and symbol of the association recognized in the trade as covering the particular species. All grade-marking shall be done under the supervision of: (a) The manufacturers' association responsible for the grading standards for the species involved; or (b) An inspection bureau recognized and authorized by the manufacturers' association responsible for the grading standards, to grade according to such rules."

"This requirement shall not apply to millwork or interior finish. (The word "Softwood" as used herein, shall be interpreted to include Douglas Fir, White Fir, Tide-water Red Cypress, Western Larch, West Coast Hemlock, Eastern Hemlock, Sitka Spruce, Engelmann Spruce, Eastern Spruce, Southern Yellow Pine, Ponderosa Pine, Sugar Pine, Idaho White Pine, Northern White Pine, Redwood.)"

"No framing lumber of lower quality than No. 1 dimension (common) shall be used for joists, sills, girders, rafters, purlins, plates, and collar beams. Foundation sills and all timbers in contact with masonry or concrete shall be of foundation grade redwood or adequately protected against termites."

"Framing lumber for studs, bridging and bracing shall be No. 2 dimension (common) or better."

"All board lumber for sub-flooring, sheathing, roof boarding, shingle lath, etc., shall be No. 2 common boards or better."

The booklet contains much information valuable to anyone considering building and can be had by individuals who do not plan to use an F. H. A. loan.

The section devoted to wood framing is too long to quote. Other subjects treated in the booklet—according to chapter heads, are as follows: "Excavation," "Masonry," "Damp-proofing," "Adobe Construction," "Structural Steel and Iron," "Lumber," "Wood Framing," "Miscellaneous," "Termite Prevention," "Roof Coverings," "Sheet Metal," "Lathing," "Interior Plaster Work," "Exterior Plaster or Stucco Work," "Painting," "Plumbing," "Heating," "Electrical Work," etc.

The accompanying illustration is of an interior in which the framing has been allowed to show through in what is called as "open ceiling." No. 1 common lumber is good enough for such a ceiling and provides some saving in expense. The walls in the picture are of the ever popular Knotty Pine which adds a touch of warm color and cheerful hominess to any room.

THE HOME DECORATOR

"I Wish I'd Saved That . . ."

the next time Edna falls into the ink, you can take her right out and dump her in whatever kind of stain remover the clipping says is best.

An indexed loose leaf notebook is a grand way to save such material. Simply clip the article and paste it into the notebook, under the correct letter of the alphabet. Thus an article on washing pillows or blankets will be placed under "L" for Laundry. The article on Slip Covers will go under "S." That grand long article telling you all about how to paint furniture—put it in the "F" file. And so on, and so on.

In all our magazines and newspapers, there is so much information that's scientifically tested, it's as though we were privileged to hear discussions from experts in every field. Your neighborhood dealers also have a lot of valuable information—ranging from paint to pastry—and they'll be glad to help your good work along. The wise person will always take advantage of such an opportunity. So, start your notebook now, and urge your friends to start theirs. In no time you'll be a fountain of wisdom, simply because you have so much good information on hand.

Edna's got an ink spot on her best bib and tucker! And you'd give a pretty penny to lay hands on that magazine that gave a new wrinkle for taking out ink! You remember you meant to save it? And all those other items you read—about how to wash leather pillows; how to make slip covers; vantage of such an opportunity. So, start your notebook now, and urge your friends to start theirs. In no time you'll be a fountain of wisdom, simply because you have so much good information on hand.

COMPACT HOME PLAN REVEALED BY ARCHITECT

A fine room plan featuring a compact and livable arrangement of rooms has been designed by Architect Mott C. Montgomery. The cost of construction, $3500, includes a two-car garage. The area is 906 square feet.

Hospitable Entrance
The exterior is simple in its treatment, with a deep, hospitable entrance with wooden shutters at either side, interesting corner window arrangements and a large chimney. The construction is of frame and stucco with double course shingles in the gable and a roof of wood shingles.

A corner fireplace is one of the outstanding features of the living-room, taking up less space than other types of fireplaces and allowing more room for the arrangement of furniture.

Plenty of window area assures a pleasant vista of the garden and an abundance of light to add cheer and comfort to the room.

Save Time, Effort
The dinette and kitchen adjoin the living-room and are planned in an efficient manner to save time and effort for the housewife. As a means of conserving space, the china cupboard in the dinette and the extra coat closet in the living-room have been incorporated into the recess made possible by the deep entry design.

The service porch will accommodate a closet for brooms and cleaning supplies, the laundry tray and the water heater.

The two bedrooms and the bathroom, at the rear of the house, open off the small central hall. In the bathroom all the fixtures are recessed, including a Pullman type lavatory, adding a great deal to the apparent size of the room.

SEEK REMOVAL OF OBSTACLES ON HOME LOANS

Prompt removal of obstacles in the way of building loans for various large sections of Southern California cities is being actively urged by the Southern California chapters of the American Institute of Architects.

Charles H. Cheney, chairman of a special housing committee, has sent a request to 50 Southland city and county planning commissions asking their co-operation in learning what sections cannot obtain mortgage insurance or loans and what can be done to remedy the situation.

"The recently adopted liberalized amendments for Federal Housing Administration mortgage insurance will stimulate a lot of private building in Southern California," said Cheney, "but only in those areas which are already eligible. There are many districts which must make themselves ready to qualify or they will stand still while the rest go ahead."

"Property owners desirous of gaining some of this new building and prosperity for their district should investigate immediately whether it has any disqualifications. Local banks or lending institutions can give the information. Also the local planning commission can tell what to do about obstacles, if any.

"Although the F. H. A. last year did its largest business in its Los Angeles office, it is surprising to find that nearly one-third of this metropolitan area still can obtain little or no mortgage insurance. In some near-by cities the situation is much worse."

REALTY BOARD HEAD URGES RENTERS TO PURCHASE HOMES

BY RAY GOODCELL

President of The Santa Ana Realty Board Ten years of diminishing capital. That is what it seems like when one looks back over the last decade and thinks of the many homes that were not purchased by prospective purchasers who continue to pay rent.

Of course, it might be said, "Cap—perhaps even hundreds of prospective buyers who were shown properties 10 or more years ago. These prospects as a rule were sincere, and headed in the right direction but something happened, they got detoured, failed to carry through. Perhaps they didn't find just the right place, it may be that the agent fell down on the close, or as it often happens, fear controlled the situation. Nevertheless the result was the same. They are still without a home of their own."

Belong to Landlords
Procrastination is one of mankind's worst enemies. Good intentions which fail to materialize cost the human family security and safety in times of stress. Houses paid for in rentals but without contract for deed are never acquired—they still belong to the landlord and he still continues to collect; not from the same ones, perhaps, but from their successors.
A few dollars laid away, just enough to make the down payment, represents very often the entire amount actually invested in a home. This is especially true of the new Federal Housing act loans and as a matter of fact, the amortized monthly installments will amount to considerably less than the property could be rented for on an economically secure basis.

Home Minded Nation
With the experience of the past few years to guide us, we should surely become a home ownership minded nation. With the facilities available there is no longer a good excuse not to be. It remains now in the hands of the renter or tenant as to whether or not he becomes the landlord.
The War Department recently ordered 95 basic combat planes and spare parts having a total value of $1,490,972.

WHY are more homes painted with SWP than any other brand of PAINT?

Emphatically answering the question: "Does The Register's Building Page gain wide attention of all readers?"—M. M. Secrest and Robert Wheeler, local real estate brokers, today were two of the most enthusiastic backers of the Saturday feature.

They revealed the reason: On Jan. 23, they advertised exclusively in The Register a home and lot for sale at 1442 South Ross street. Inquiries concerning the house and lot followed immediately, and Secrest today told The Register that they had been sold to Lyle A. Pease, of Los Angeles, and he and his family will move in next week.

"Nothing succeeds like success" was the terse comment of Secrest in answer to the question, "Does the building page of The Register pay?"

NEW FIREPLACE
DESIGN IS TOLD

An innovation in living-room design is the placing of the fireplace in a wide, shallow pit, reports the Modern Home institute.

In a smart new London apartment, a semicircular pit is used for lounging purposes. A long, low cabinet with bookshelf, fashioned of Philippine mahogany, is used to separate the fireplace sector from the remainder of the room.

Cushions are used on the floor of the recess in the place of chairs. A short ladder at one side of the fireplace leads to a balcony.

Since the apartment was designed by an architect for his own use, he added a large studio window on the north side.

SAVONAROLA: (1452-1490)

SAVONAROLA, the fiery-tongued preacher of Florence was the tragic victim of the reform movement of which he was the originator. He is sometimes represented as an inspired prophet and a wonder-working saint, but, sometimes, also as an ambitious demagogue and deluded fanatic.

Born at Ferrara he grew up a social misfit and to the great disappointment of his family he left home when quite young, gave up a medical career and entered a Dominican monastery. Here he desired only the life of a lay-brother and did the mean work of the house. The quiet life of meditation and study seemed to satisfy him. His superiors, however, sensed particular ability in the man and urged him to study theology. In the course of time he became thoroughly conversant with the Bible which he knew almost entirely by heart.

Gradually the monastic melancholy and laziness began to irk him. Having fled the world for several years he became convinced that his was an active life and the deepening impression of the corruption of the world including the church and particularly that of Florence assumed the proportions of a personal problem. The "great misery of the world, the iniquities of men" were to be his adversaries.

With Savonarola's training and temperament it would seem that preaching was his vocation but his first efforts were unsuccessful. His delivery was naive and passive and the simplicity of sound doctrine which he expounded were poor competition to the sophisticated and elegant asceticism of Fra Mariano, the current favorite of Lorenzo de Medici.

It was during four years as an itinerant preacher that Savonarola developed his individual, strenuous and unstudied manner of speaking. His approach rose from a man-to-man intimacy to an almost supernatural burning eloquence. His fame spread and gradually Savonarola, the man, became a powerful movement.

His religious outlook was thoroughly mediaeval and he simply wanted a moral regeneration of the church, hand in hand with a political regeneration of Italy, more especially of Florence. The reformer concentrated his stinging eloquence on the brilliant, half-pagan life of the city.

When the French invasion of 1494 led to a popular revolution against the Medici, that politically-popular family, Savonarola automatically became the real ruler of Florence. His reform seemed to succeed, a new spirit was awakened and many of the citizens adopted a semi-monastic life. The churches were thronged and practically all the gay life of the city was at a standstill.

For the time being the life of Florence was radically changed. But Savonarola aroused enemies. The adherents of the deposed Medici hated him, and above all, Pope Alexander VI whom he had attacked as the seat of corruption. The Pope, quite frankly, was afraid of the preacher and offered him the post of archbishop of Florence and a cardinal's hat, if he would keep silent. Savonarola not only declined the offer but openly denounced the "evil character" and misrule of Alexander. The preacher-dictator was treading the quicksands of the agitator and was warned over and over again by his friends.

Meanwhile not only did political affairs begin to give trouble but famine and plague visited Florence lowering the enthusiasm for the reformer. The intrigues of the banished Medici smoldered, became active and finally broke out into open opposition. The Pope was not slow in utilizing these difficulties and in 1497 suddenly and formally excommunicated Savonarola forbidding all Christians to hold any kind of converse with him.

Friends sustained the erstwhile dictator for a while but gradually turned against him. At this critical moment Savonarola challenged an ordeal and asked that God destroy him by fire if he had preached or prophesied lies. The ordeal was thwarted when a sudden rain put out the fires of the two pyres which had been lighted and the ordeal was considered a failure. The frenzied and disillusioned spectators fell upon him in disgust. From that moment he completely lost his power over the people, and even became an object of pity and contempt.

He was arrested by papal commissioners, cruelly tortured and hanged with his body burned by the city government. The Dominican order, however, has since taken great pains to have him canonized. Though Savonarola's death was due quite as much to Florentine reaction against him as to the hostility of the Pope, the persecution of this preacher was numbered not the least among Alexander's crimes.

PREDICT 7 WORLD MARKS IN A. A. U. MEET

Jaycee Ruggers Tie 'Majors'

EXPECT 80,000 FOR COLISEUM SKI-JUMPING

BY JACK GUENTHER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
LOS ANGELES—Tomorrow, under a typical California sky (gold and bright, bright blue) the world's greatest ski-jumpers will glide down a make-believe mountain on make-believe snow and drop in the stadium where, for five years, the University of Southern California has exhibited make-believe football teams.

The event is the first Southern California open ski meet, to be held at Memorial Coliseum. It is Hollywood's way of showing up Mohammed and the mountain as a pair of wishful but unresponsible pikers. Hollywood is manufacturing this mountain—along with necessary snow, public interest and a gate of $80,000 persons.

Now, $80,000 paid admissions represent an imposing bundle of folding money. Since few championship fights, and fewer football games, draw to six figures these days, you ask what is this skiing? And why when and how its sudden cash value?

A tournament director will explain happily that skiing is the fastest sport in America—positively the fastest growing sport in the country. In Southern California, a decade ago, only 2000 persons ventured the 50 miles to the nearest winter playground. This season Lake Arrowhead, Big Bear, Big Pine and other resorts have attracted more than half a million. Skiers claim this pace is being matched everywhere in America where snow is within driving distance.

This winter the crack jumpers have banded together for a barnstorming tour. They follow a circuit similar to that of a wrestling, rodeo or circus troupe. A month ago they were in Chicago, two weeks ago at Battleboro, Vt., last week at Lake Placid. But nowhere have they found a meet comparable as this one.

On the west end of the Coliseum towering high above the rim, has been constructed a giant web of steel. This supports a long, wooden runway, which spills to the turf in two graceful curves, over the goal posts the U. S. C. players have been missing for years. Down this 165-foot structure—high as a 16-story building—the jumpers will streak.

EXCELSIOR NOVICES TAKE SUNSET MEET

Excelsior high school captured the first annual Sunset league novice track and field meet yesterday, totaling 42½ points in Class A at Anaheim. Added to its Class A and B scores Thursday, this gave Excelsior a grand total of 99½ points for the two-day affair. Jordan high of Long Beach, which led the field yesterday by a slim margin, dropped into second place in the final score with 76 points. Coach Steward White's Orangemen scored a total of 59 points for third honors.

Voicing a sentiment expressed privately, if not publicly, by every seasoned horseman in the west, the California Breeders' association today advocated the removal of the receiving barn at Santa Anita and other California courses. "The receiving barn has served its purpose and is no longer necessary," declared one of the directors of the breeders' organization.

The past, present or future value of the receiving barn is obscure to this writer. A saliva test is taken of the winner of every race, every day, and the use of narcotics in racing has become so negligible that when a case does occur, it's rarity makes headline news. Keeping a horse in the "poison pen" for an hour before a race is not only silly, but bordering on the ridiculous.

Horses are high-strung animals, many are extremely nervous, and especially fillies and mares are likely to fret over the slightest thing, become "washy" and leave their race right in the receiving barn. They have done it before and will continue to do it as long as the barn is in vogue.

Eastern horses are not accustomed to it, eastern trainers are particularly outspoken against the barn. They say it is a strong argument for winter racing in Florida.

The California Breeders' association, headed by Charles E. Perkins, a sportsman and breeder of the highest type, recently advocated the rule prohibiting the racing of 2-year-olds until May. The California Horse Racing Board adopted this suggestion, and the board would be serving the interests of the public, which after all,

Santa Ana junior college's basketball team can clinch third place in the Eastern conference basketball race tonight by thumping Riverside Jaycee—but nothing more. Chaffey junior college saw to that last night when it went on a scoring spree to swamp San Bernardino, 47-33.

The result of the Chaffey-San Bernardino game left Fullerton and Chaffey the right to enter a three-game playoff series next week for the championship.

Next Friday's Games
San Bernardino at Santa Ana; Pomona at Chaffey; Redlands at Riverside.

Coming from behind in the second half, Santa Ana high school's basketball club sped past Pomona for a 39-32 victory in Andrews gym here last night, giving Coach Joe Kogler's Saints a 500 season in the Citrus Belt league. They still have a chance to tie for third place by defeating San Bernardino next week in the seasonal finale.

At the same time, Redlands recorded a mild upset by beating Chaffey, 28-18 at Redlands, thereby going into undisputed possession of first place. If the Terriers win at Riverside next Friday they'll represent the conference in the Southern California championship playoffs.

Santa Ana got off on the right foot against Pomona's Red Devils and acquired an 11-8 edge by the end of the first quarter. But some nice long-shooting and a couple of one-handers near the basket set Pomona ahead at the half, 18-17. The Saints dominated play after the intermission. Regaining the lead soon after hostilities started again, Santa Ana pushed ahead at the three-quarter post, 26-23 and slowly increased this advantage in the fourth period.

Superior guarding accounted for the victory with Maurice Young parking close to Aetion (Red) Hill, Pomona's high-scoring forward who pays the freight on racing, to follow the second suggestion of the breeders.

Jockey George Woolf, a rider who is always in there doing his best, was $200 poorer today, following an official ruling made yesterday. He allegedly used profanity, and two hundred coconuts worth of it too, on Starter Eddie Thomas. Thomas left him at post on Liberty Flight Thursday, and as this was by no means the first time that Woolf got the worst of it at the start, it is possible that patience snapped.

Woolf's good record kept him from receiving a suspension, according to the ruling.

In two more rulings, Maurice Peters was suspended for five days and fined $100 for rough riding in the fifth race yesterday, while Harry Richards was fined $50 for making what the stewards considered an unwarranted claim of foul in the fourth race.

Stageland will be pointed for the Santa Anita Handicap after all, it was disclosed yesterday by Earl Sande, who changed his plans concerning the immediate future of the Derby winner. Jockey Lloyd Knapp has been engaged to ride him and has agreed to do 103 pounds. Stageland is in with 100 pounds, and will run coupled with Seeshifter as the Maxwell Howard entry.

Three-year-olds which fell by the wayside in the Derby will have a consolation race, according to plans announced today. The encounter will be at a mile and one-sixteenth March 11 and the purse will be about $5500. The exact amount is to be determined by the number of $1500 overnight races which were not run at the meeting because of small fields.

Stageland, Dauber and Sun Egret, which ran one-two-three in the Derby will not be eligible for the consolation affair.

Jockey Raymond (Sonny) Workman may get the mount on Seabiscuit in the big race, provided he performs well on the star today. Definite decision is expected to be reached Monday by Owner Charles S. Howard.

Bengals, with the game slated to get under way at 8 o'clock. In the only other game being played in the conference, Coach Art Nunn's unbeaten Fullerton team meets Pomona at Pomona. These contests mark the final week of the regular league schedule.

Both Coaches Beatty and Griffith may change their starting lineups before game-time. Del Holan, Verne Rutledge and Ted DeVellis are likely starters for Santa Ana. Riverside also has numerous high class reserves whom he may elect to start. Al Muhonen, diminutive reserve forward and brother of Vic Muhonen, hot shot of last season's Bengal five is a dangerous performer around the basket. Against the U. C. L. A. frosh last week he scored 11 points.

Probable starting lineups:
Santa Ana Pos. Riverside
Charles Hall, F. Frank Wells
Art Heinisch, F. George Del
Cy Levernmann, C. Wilbur Crystal
Ken Marshall, G. Charles Foss
Lynn Arnett, G. Harold Rickert

Seniors Favored In High School's Inter-Class Meet

Inter-class track and field competition began at Santa Ana high school Monday afternoon, with sophomores, juniors and seniors all battling for The Register cup. Seniors are favored although the juniors are expected to score heavily in the sprints.

Coach "Pink" Greene completed a series of pre-meet trials yesterday, running off 110 and 220 yard dashes and 120 yard low hurdles.

First heat of the 110 was won by Jerome Duffy in 11.4 seconds with Don Warhurst second, "Doc" Lutz third and Byram Bates fourth. The second heat went to Wayne Piper in 11.2 sec., with Howard Elliott second, Bob Kelchner third and Dick Stein fourth.

Elliott sprang a surprise by nosing out Piper in the 220 in 23 flat. Warhurst was third, Bill Hemmen fourth, Kelchner fifth, Dick Ladiges sixth and Lutz seventh.

Tom Engelman and Laurence Dresser tied in the hurdles at 13.9 sec. They were followed by Bob Clark, Jim O'Connell, "Bud" Haker and Stein.

Ho Hum; Where Have We Heard This One Before?

LAKE CHARLES, La.—(UP)—Outfielder Wally Moses, only-unsigned member of the Philadelphia Athletics, said today he would quit baseball before accepting the $10,000 contract offered by Connie Mack.

Moses, who received approximately $3500 last year, is believed to be demanding $15,000 for the 1938 season.

STUBBORN DONS SCRUM CHECKS CLUBMEN, 0-0

BY DUNCAN CLARK
Despite the loss of four of their finest players at mid-term, Santa Ana junior college's ruggers proved to all concerned last night that they are still one of the Southland's leading fifteen by holding to a 0-0 tie the undefeated Pasadena Majors on the Municipal Bowl greensward.

Playing before the largest crowd of the season here, the Butterworth-coached Dons displayed a stubborn defensive, that held the highly touted Pasadena clubmen on even terms.

It was the brilliant play of going against the more experienced Carl Benson, Jerry Ne-smith, Bill Twist and Bob Faul in the front rank of the scrum that kept the Dons in the thick of the "Wild Bill" Semmacher, Tom An-lenced Pasadenaans.

Danny Boyd and Johnny Joseph stood out in the Don backfield, with both hard driving tackles and offensive rushes. Bob Pannell, Larry Timken, Fred Kobayashi and Harold Tucker all came up with opportunistic kicks to "touch" at critical moments.

Boyd missed two penalty kicks by narrow margins in the first half that would have won the game for Santa Ana. Also Captain Ward, stand-off half for Pasadena, missed a penalty place-ment in the second half by not more than three or four feet.

Both teams dribbled the ball with inches of the goal several times but desperate defensive tactics saved almost certain points.

Coach Ernest Butterworth of Santa Ana, who described the first half of last night's game on the public address system, said he would try to schedule another game for the Dons next Thursday night in the Bowl. He hopes to get Redlands University as the opponents.

ROMANO-CHICK FRAY SIGNED

Felipe Romano, the Mexican junior heavyweight wrestling champion finally gets his coveted chance to win the world title.

After many weeks of knocking at the door of the throne Felipe finally has been admitted to meet Champion Dude Chick. They clash Thursday night in a three fall to a finish match at the Orange County Athletic club.

Levin also announced that he is bringing back Ernie Piluso for a three-fall match. Piluso asked for a bout with Jimmy Lott but the latter refused terms and as a result Promoter Levin signed Marshall Carter, Tony (Killer) Morelli of New York will meet Tommy Ward and Steve Strelch draws Duke Pettigrove in supporting matches.

TUSTIN DRUBS 'RABBITS, 28-23

Turning in one of their best games of the season, Bill Cole's Tustin Farmers last night scored a 28-23 victory over Long Beach Poly in the Tustin high school gymnasium.

This practice tussle served as a warm-up to the C.I.F. playoff game next Friday night as Tustin meets Montebello at Tustin.

The Farmers rang up a convincing 15-0 lead before the first half of the Long Beach game was over. The Jackrabbits suddenly hit the hoop for five points and the half ended 15-5. In the second half, Tustin restricted itself to close guarding and close-in shots and Long Beach brought the score up to 22-19 before baskets by Walt Linker, Monroy and Vic Linker settled the issue.

Monroy led the Tustin scoring with 8 points. Walt Linker had 7 as did Forward Harold Lilley of the Farmers. Cohee of Long Beach made 8.

Tustin's reserves won from the Jackrabbit second-stringers in the last two minutes, 26-24, on a long shot by Phil Rummels, Johnny Osterman led the locals with 11 points.

SCRATCH WHICHCEE FROM 'SAN ANTONIO'

ARCADIA—(UP)—Whichcee, entered with Indian Brook from the A. C. T. stable, in today's $7500 Santa Anita handicap, the last "prep" for next Saturday's $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap was scratched at mid-morning, cutting the field to 13 starters.

Seabiscuit, owned by Charles S. Howard, remained the favorite in the mile and a furlong race as post-time neared.

SUCH IMMIDISTY

When Penn's basketball team found itself with only five shirts in a game with Dartmouth, each substitution was accompanied by a public undressing on the floor.

RACING AND SUCH

Question: What chance have you when you bet on a horse race?
Answer: About one chance in four, even if you follow religiously the selections of Santa Anita's leading handicappers!

Best in the business are the men who combine this precarious work with their regular newspaper "coverage" of the races. They have a fixed income, ask no favors, "plug" no particular stable, have no reason to help create false favorites in the wagering. In other words, their picks are on the level, their mistakes honest. Incidentally, they are the most intelligent and experienced men in the business.

Santa Anita reached the three-quarters pole Tuesday. That was the 42nd of a 56-day meeting. At that time Jack McDonald of the Herald-Express led all the handicappers. His average was .28, Oscar Otis of The Times, climbing fast, was second at .27. The Register's Tom Gwynne was third with .27, a fraction behind. Then came Maurice Bernard of The Examiner, Herbert of The News, Martha of The News. The others trailed.

When even these men can't average better than a winner every four races what's the use? You just can't beat 'em.

Having delivered this little sermon, this department will run up to Arcadia and corroborate his facts today. There's always a chance he might be wrong, you know.

Tornillo, the "Santa Ana horse" who runs in the colors of Rancher Urban Plavan of 2685 North Main street, is such a bad post-actor that Santa Anita's stewards won't allow him in a race at a distance of a mile, a mile and one-sixteenth or a mile and one-eighth. Reason: these races start in front of the grandstand where the roar of excited "players" excites Tornillo.

This ruling keeps Tornillo, whose best distance is at about a mile and an eighth, out of all events except six or seven-furlong sprints or the longer races.

Tornillo ran in the seventh yesterday, came home third at a mile and one-quarter. Many a Santa Ana, aware that the horse was improving, was on the handwagon. Tornillo paid $6.40 to show. Had he won his price would have been $20.40 for $2.

Orian Landreth's graduation to the University of Arizona opens up one of the best places in the inter-scholastic coaching profession. Year in and year out, Long Beach Poly high school has the best athletic material in Southern California pre-dominant, with the possible exception of San Diego, which has a similar set-up: two high schools for cities crowding 200,000 population.

I haven't the slightest idea who will succeed Landreth. Perhaps there's a man in the Long Beach system deserving. But this looks like a "spot play" for yesterday, like a Bill Cole of Tustin who has long since deserved promotion.

COAST LEAGUE PROBES STARS

LOS ANGELES (UP)—In their tower office at Wrigley field today directors of the Pacific Coast league met in special executive session to determine what—if anything—shall be done about the new Hollywood Stars.

Although subjects to be discussed at the star chamber gathering officially remained a secret, bleachers easily guessed the most pertinent topics as:

1. A show-down on whether the Hollywood officers intend to comply with league stipulations that they build a ball park in the film city.

2. A milder take-over of the financial organization of the club.

President W. C. Tuttle, who mixes his baseball chores with two short stories for Western magazines, threw the first ball before even the session began, declaring emphatically that as yet "there is no Hollywood baseball team."

"When the league gave the Missions (former name of the new Stars) permission to transfer to Hollywood last winter it was on the provision that it build a ball park in Hollywood. The season now is just a month away and nothing has been done to build such a park," Tuttle explained.

"I'm getting tired of promises, so I've called the directors for a meeting and expect to get definite information concerning the club's plans. At the present there is no Hollywood club. There are officers, a few, but as far as I know it's not yet a corporation."

"I want to know about this right now. We need eight clubs for the opening April 2."

"Digging in" for a home stand in which they must recover ground lost on the road last week, Santa Ana Country club's golfers oppose Rancho Santa Fe in a Southern California association inter-team match tomorrow, beginning at 1 p. m.

Due to the illness of J. K. McDonald, minor changes will be made in Santa Ana's lineup, according to Dr. Gar Ross, captain. Ben Manker will move up to play with F. E. Farnsworth. George Baker has been drafted to replace McDonald. Baker teams up with E. H. Guthrie.

Santa Ana's first five pairings are unchanged: 1—Dick Ewert and Jack Robertson; 2—Bill Foot and Ed Holmes; 3—H. S. Wright and Fay Hochstrasser; 4—L. H. Robinson and A. W. Robinson; 5—L. D. Coffing and L. W. Bemis.

NATION'S AGE TRACKMEN VIE AT N. Y. GARDEN

Radio KNX (1050) will broadcast tonight's National A.A.U. indoor track and field championships in New York, beginning at 8:15, Orange county time.

BY HENRY SUPER

New York—Seven world records probably will topple tonight when America's outstanding athletes compete in the 50th National indoor track and field championships at Madison Square Garden.

Sixteen titles will be at stake in the only major meet of the season run over metric instead of yardage distances. The forecast for records is based on the fact that tonight's meeting will attract the classiest field since 1933 when the Nationals were placed under the metric system.

The seven events in which new records are expected: 60-meter dash; 65-meter hurdles; 1500-meter run; 5000-meter run; and in three relays—the 2000 and 1000 meter medleys and the 1600-meter relay. In addition Don Lash, the Indiana "Iron Horse" who will run in the 5000, has asked that special timers be placed at the three-mile mark to catch his time as he flashes by. He hopes to break the three-mile record while seeking the 5000-meter crown.

Johnson Dash Favorite

In the 60-meter dash, where the record of 6.6 seconds is shared jointly by Jesse Owens and Ben Johnson, it seems likely that Johnson will retain the championship with a record performance.

In the hurdles, where the record of 8.6 was set in 1933 and equaled in 1935 by Percy Beard, two men are favored to lower the mark—Forrest (Spec) Towns of Georgia and Al Tolmich of Detroit. Both either have equaled or broken yardage marks every time they ran in season in the garden.

In the 1600-meter run, Glenn Cunningham was two-tenths of a second off his world mile mark in last

90TH BIRTHDAY IS CELEBRATED

ORANGE, Feb. 26.—The celebration of Charles E. Spotts' 90th birthday Friday brought to his mind many interesting recollections of his young manhood, among which is the memory of the time he saw Abraham Lincoln before the presidential election.

Spotts, who is full of humor, said that he himself was campaigning against Lincoln, but that he had on his "patriotic suit" that day. The suit had bright red trousers and each leg was striped with a wide blue band. He wore a white hat and a blue jacket to complete the striking ensemble.

Mr. Spotts, who lives at 143 South Clark street, was guest of honor at a surprise birthday dinner, served by his daughter, Mrs. J. E. Linnell, 122 South Clark street. Sharing his 90th birthday dinner was Mr. Spotts' older sister, Mrs. Julia M. Hall, who is 97 years old. Other diners were J. E. Linnell, John Hall, George Davis, all of Orange; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Erwin, of Tustin; Mr. and Mrs. Milton Wilson and E. A. Halbrook of Fullerton. The afternoon was spent chatting and recalling old times.

Mr. Spotts received many gifts, telegrams and congratulatory messages, among which was a large bouquet of spring blossoms from his neighbors and two birthday cakes, baked by Mrs. C. H. Adams and Mrs. W. H. Erwin.

For Love of Polly

CAST OF CHARACTERS
POLLY CHELSEY, heroine; stranded in London when war broke out.
JERRY WHITFIELD, hero; the Yankee who sees her through.
CAPTAIN BANKS, privateer captain.

Yesterday: Arriving too late at the ship to sail back to America, Jerry and Polly are married while they await Banks' plans to procure a ship of his own.

CHAPTER XXII

AT the end of a week Cabell Banks arrived at the hotel and asked to see "Monsieur Jeremiah Whitfield."

"Le voici!" said the innkeeper, and he pointed out Jerry just coming in at the door with his wife.

Cabell wrung Jerry's hand and kissed Polly on both cheeks to the intense pleasure of some native onlookers who had supposed all Americans to be cold and restrained. Jerry asked Cabell to come with them to their room, and presently the two men were deep in conversation at a window looking toward the harbor, while Polly sat across the room with her knitting.

Cabell said, "I've found the ship for us, Jerry! She's tied up at Carteret. We'd be able to get out of Carteret."

Jerry mentally located the little port 20 miles to the south. "We might get out of there all right. Yes, I think we could. What's the ship like?"

"A clipper. Built in Baltimore. Jerry's face fell. "New Englanders don't hold with those ships, Cabell. They're too flimsy." "They're the fastest things on water."

"I doubt if I could handle one. No, I don't believe I could bring one home right side up," Jerry declared.

Cabell hooted in disagreement. "My friend, I've been hearing things about you. There are a number of stranded American sailors in this port and some of them are from down Connecticut way. They tell me you saved Captain Cobb's barkentine Eliza from the rocks in a hurricane on a trip around the Horn. You were just 20 at the time."

POLLY looked up quickly. There was so much Jerry had never told her. "How did you do it, Jerry?"

"It was just chance, you might say. It was the trip we lost our first mate in a blow and our second mate from a fever. Cap'n Cobb was down in his bunk with a broken leg and I had to take charge. The bosun or the galley cook could have done just as well, if they'd been put to it. Cap'n Cobb made me first mate afterward. But there are better and older sailors than me that've never had the chance."

"Maybe," Cabell agreed dryly. "Look out, or you'll get conceited over your modesty. . . . This clipper now . . ."

"What's wrong with her? What's she doing in a little port like Carteret? How long has she been rotting there?"

"She's been there only a couple of months and she's sound. Her captain died of a fever the day they put in there. Her owner's a Baltimore merchant who's financially pressed. He wants to sell her."

"That means he wants ready money. You could hardly get her on credit, I reckon?"

"I reckon not. But wait till you hear this! His agent's the same French banker here in Cherbourg my father transacts business with. I've convinced this banker that Mr. Cabell Banks, senior, of Boston would want me to have the ship to get home in, and that he'd like me to have enough money advanced to outfit the clipper and pay the crew for five weeks. The chief expense will be a pair of long guns, properly mounted, but hell stand for it. It's a perfect situation, friend Whitfield. Where we to snipe at fate?"

"A Baltimore clipper's not safe, Banks. Those Marylanders are mad to build them. Too flimsy. Too fast."

"Too flimsy, I grant you. But not too fast. Nothing could be too fast for us now. Do you realize, Jerry, we've got no right to fight the British till we get our commissions? If we tried it we'd be pirates instead of privateers. We've got to get home, and quick. We'll be a hare pursued by a hundred hounds, this crossing."

"You've convinced me," Jerry said. "It had occurred to him that no ship could be too fast to get Polly home in. After they'd made America they could trade the thing for a stout New England craft that wouldn't topple in a gale or crush like an eggshell when fired on."

TEN days later in the small harbor of Carteret Polly Whitfield went aboard the clipper Gray Gull owned and captained by Mr. Cabell Banks, junior, of Boston, and whose first mate was Jeremiah Whitfield of Newburyport, Massachusetts.

"We've kept her old name," Cabell explained to Polly as he escorted her aboard. "We heard the name Revenge, that we had such a hanker for, is already in use."

PREDICT FAIR WEATHER

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 26.—The weather bureau today predicted continued warm weather and sunshine for the remainder of the day in the face of a storm threat from a high depression area 1000 miles offshore.

Forecasters said rains probably would fall in the San Francisco bay area and parts of Northern California tomorrow when the high depression area hits the coast.

"THIS CURIOUS WORLD"

By William Ferguson

IF THE EARTH SUDDENLY STOPPED MOVING IN ITS ORBIT, IT WOULD FALL INTO THE SUN WITHIN TWO MONTHS.

IN THE SIX YEARS THAT THE N.Y. HOLE-IN-ONE GOLF TOURNAMENT HAS BEEN HELD, ONLY THREE ACES HAVE BEEN MADE OUT OF 14,030 SHOTS.

A GOLDFISH, AFTER HAVING BEEN FROZEN 552 TIMES AND REVIVED EACH TIME, APPEARED NONE THE WORSE FOR THE EXPERIENCE.

CENTRIFUGAL force now balances the pull of the sun and keeps our earth in its place. If our orbital motion stopped, we would start falling toward the sun immediately. The first second, the earth would fall only one-ninth of a mile, but when we finally struck the sun, we would be traveling 380 miles a second.

Jimmie Fidler in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26, '38 — Idol Chatter: Amazing to me how many women write ecstatic letters about Arthur Treacher's "romantic appeal." Decked out in a dark wig, Claire Trevor, three-quarter profile, could easily pass for Simone Simon's sister. Hollywood oddities: W. C. Fields has small savings accounts in more than 100 banks. Filmville's high priest of worry: Bill Powell, who has a complex about going broke. Jeanette MacDonald knows more about the care of dogs than most veterinarians—and will tell it all if you give her half a chance. No love lost: Loretta Young and Hollywood's social queen, the Countess Di Frasso. According to Bing Crosby the time when an actor really needs a stand-in is when he is pacing the hospital corridor, awaiting the blessed event. Someone should hint to Mae West that people who always speak of themselves in the third person sound egotistical.

Silliest bush campaign in film history is Metro's effort to conceal the fact that some of its stars bet on the ponies. Cited for the Croix de Merite: Richard Arlen—teamed with two famous pros in an open golf tournament, he shot his worst score in years, without offering a single alibi. The girl who modeled for Walt Disney's drawing of "Snow White" is a young dancer named Marjorie Bell—you will be seeing her in pictures soon. Miss-casting notes: the idea of starring the Ritz Brothers in "Kentucky Moonshine"—they are never still.

On the Boulevard this morning, I encountered Tom Mix, resplendent in skin-tight white braided riding breeches; embroidered cowboy boots, a white silk shirt and a ten-gallon, snow-white Stetson. And I had the same thrill that befalls a wandering American, when, in some foreign land, he sees the Stars and Stripes. Tom typifies the Hollywood that has gone. His cars still are decorated with silver-embossed leather; his house still flaunts his "T. M." brand—and his heart is still as big as all outdoors. With today's screen stars searching for new and safer investments, Tom is still searching for down-and-out cowboys who need a helping hand. Maybe his grammar could stand improvement; perhaps his costumes are more colorful than good taste will permit—but I never see that circus-like costume of his without feeling a nostalgia for the old, happy-go-lucky Hollywood of fifteen years ago.

Speaking of western stars reminds me of Jane Withers' complex. Jane is not only crazy about horses and horseback riding, but also a hero worshiper where any horseman is concerned. Buck Jones outranks the Taylors and Gables on her list. Last night, in front of a preview theater, I encountered Mrs. Withers, and asked Jane's whereabouts. "Oh, she's somewhere in that crowd," said Jane's mama, pointing to a surging melee of autograph hunters. Out of curiosity I waited—waited for a good ten minutes. And at the end of that time, Jane struggled out of the mob, proudly flourishing her trophy of the evening, a slip of paper, bearing the scrawled name, "Charles Buck Jones."

Stopped on the Paramount lot for a chat with George Burns, who is currently viewing things with even greater pessimism than usual. "It's Gracie," he explained. "Every afternoon she drags me out to Santa Anita where I stand by and see her lose her all on the races. Of course, it's her own money, but I'm wasting away from over-use of my voice." "Trying to root a winner home for her," I suggested. "No," gloomed George, "trying to convince Gracie that a horse isn't a sure winner just because it's listed at fifty-to-one."

Had lunch with Madame Major, one of the world's most famous voice teachers—and came away with a revised opinion of Simone Simon. Madame Major, with a fabulous business in New York, coaching opera and concert singers, is not one to kowtow to movie fame. She came to Hollywood for a brief vacation, was introduced to Simone, heard her first singing efforts, and cancelled all of her New York dates in order to stay and coach Simone for her first singing role. "She has great promise," ruled Madame Major. "I will not go on record as saying that she has a great voice—but this much I will say, if she works hard she can, in a year or two, be as good as most opera stars—as good as Lily Pons, for instance." And Madame Major, I repeat, is not a movie fan.

Spencer Tracy likes to tell about the actor who must-roomed to prominence as a "great lover." Offered a certain role by a producer, he objected, saying: "It isn't the right vehicle for a player of importance." "You're right," retorted the producer. "I'll show you the ideal vehicle for you!" And he led him to the window and pointed out a truck!

A cloth dampened in whiting and rubbed gently over the smeared places, will remove finger prints around door knobs without making the paint thin.

"ROSALIE" TO SCREEN SUNDAY

Cole Porter has put rhythm into the army, swing into a girl's college and a few hot locks into Europe in writing the score for the first international musical, "Rosalie," opening at Walker's tomorrow along with a Laurel and Hardy comedy revival, "Blotto." News-reel also is offered.

"Rosalie," ultra-lavish extravaganza, co-stars Nelson Eddy and Eleanor Powell, features Frank Morgan, Ray Bolger, Ilona Massey, Edna May Oliver and five hundred beautiful dancers.

Porter contributes nine numbers to the film, "Rosalie," including "Close," an instrumental number. The title role, "Rosalie," is sung by Eddy as are "Who Knows" and "In the Still of the Night." Porter wrote the hit tunes for the previous Powell picture, "Born to Dance." He is a noted writer.

Directed by W. S. Van Dyke II, the film is based upon the play by William Anthony McGuire and Guy Bolton. More than 500 dancers appear, together with the "beauty line" of America's most attractive college girls; Albertina Rasch's "ail romance" group of dancers, and other ensembles.

Modern Poets

BY BEULAH MAY

SIDNEY KING RUSSELL One of the finest poets of California, Sidney King Russell, began writing when he was seven years old. He is also a composer of songs, his "Journey's End" and "Along Cowboy" have been sung by John Charles Thomas and Nelson Eddy. His beautiful poem to his mother is well known but those who have never seen it will treasure it and the others will want to read it again.

PLEDGE

Mother, I shall come back to you at last
When all the world has gone the lonely way,
When stars are dim and heavens overcast
I shall go wisely back and choose to stay
Where we may voice the things we meant to say
So long ago and somehow put aside;
Like gold well stored against a rainy day
We'll mint our dreams and happily confide
The ecstasy and hurt that we have won
Upon our ways, and you will take my hand
More as a friend than mother to her son,
And smiling tell me that you understand
And fear no more lest eager feet should stray,
Mother, when I come home at last to stay.
In Anthology of Southern California Verse.

TRYST

I broke the bread of Beauty
With Silence on a hill
When dusk crept through the meadows
And all the world was still.
I heard a sound like music
And knew not whence it came,
I dipped my soul in laughter
And walked as through a flame.

I came back empty-handed
Without a word to speak,
My path was strewn with stardust
And midnight kissed my cheek.
Who once breaks bread with Beauty
When singing suns have set,
He may not soon forget.

Notes and News From City Library

By RUTH BISHOP

The industrious and the busy bee probably learned what they know from watching the workers in the catalog department of a public library.

Our department usually has the appearance of a very disorganized book store because of the variety of material placed about the room in what would appear to be "hit and miss" fashion. All these books, old and new, maps, charts, government documents, pamphlets, music and bound periodicals are placed in mixed groups on our shelves.

The fact is that all these choice treasures are being hurried through the room and into the hands of the library patrons. Before they are ready, however, there are many things which must be done to them and, most important, is the preparation of the catalog cards which index to the main catalog. This is the index to all the material in our library.

In order to send material through as fast as possible, which is our aim, we have simplified the process so that only the steps which are absolutely necessary remain. There are still about 15 steps to the processing of each book, and, as we put through about four hundred books each month, things are usually "humming" in this department which the library patron seldom sees. He knows vaguely that it exists and that it may be the cause of his having the book he wants, next week instead of the present. Processing includes checking of bills and order files; stamping books with date of receipt, date of bill and price.

The book is then accessioned, that is assigned a number which shows its numerical "order of entry" into the library. The book then is carefully opened, and this is important to its life, and is then stamped on definite pages with the name of the library.

It is now ready for the more difficult steps of classifying and cataloging. In classifying we try to place the book in the location in the library where it will be most useful. This is often quite difficult

Circus Film Stars Berry And Cooper

"O'Shaughnessy's Boy," starring Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper, returned by popular request, and "40 Naughty Girls," with James Gleason and ZaSu Pitts, showing in Santa Ana for the first time, co-bill on the State screen beginning tomorrow.

The basic story of "O'Shaughnessy's Boy" is simple and powerful "Windy," played by Beery, is an ace tiger trainer, thought by his toddling son, Spanky McFarland, to be the grandest guy on earth. But family difficulties between man and wife separate father and son, until years later, they meet again, and the boy, Stubby, now played by Jackie Cooper, has nothing but hatred for his father.

How Windy finally succeeds in winning the love of Stubby again will bring many a heart-throb. The mystery in "40 Naughty Girls" begins when the press agent of a big Broadway revue is found murdered in one of the girls' dressing rooms. The film is spiced with a deft alternation of hearty laughs and spine-chilling thrills. It is Andrea Leeds, Charlie McCarthy and Edgar Bergen, above, in a romantic interlude, appear now on the Broadway screen in a grand fun-musical with an all-star cast. "Scandal Street," with Lew Ayres, Louise Campbell, Edgar Kennedy, a mystery comedy, is second offering.

"MAN-PROOF" BRINGS MYRNA LOY TO WALKER WEDNESDAY

Romance will "fill the air" for those who attend the program opening at Walker's theater beginning Wednesday for Myrna Loy, always a fine actress, appears with Franchot Tone in "Man-Proof," and Wendy Barrie and Kent Taylor, in "Prescription for Romance."

Color cartoon and newsreel are added attractions. "Man-Proof" is the amusing story of a modern marital mixup, with Miss Loy and Miss Rosalind Russell ably abetted by Tone and Walter Pidgeon. From the time Miss Loy, lovely newspaper artist, is "thrown over" as frequently a book will fit well into two or three places. The cataloging consists of making cards for the main catalog which indicate the author, title, subject content and the location of the book in the library. At least three cards are required for each book.

Fiction is fairly simple but maps, charts, documents and music are all "trouble-makers. Shelflist comes next which is the process of making our official card index by class numbers. The very last steps are—pasting of pockets, lettering on back and giving a quick coat of shellac for protection. After all this has been done the books are ready for human consumption. However, there is still the little matter of filing the cards and last year over 7,000 cards went into our various catalogs. The Junior Library, the Julia Lathrop Branch, the Reference Dept. and the Circulation Dept. are all waiting for their books and all equally eager to serve their patrons. The most urgent requests are passed on to us and as these are given first consideration and hurried through the department we are constantly made aware of our PUBLIC whom we seldom see but are happy to serve.

Tobacco was discovered in San Domingo in 1492; afterwards by the Spaniards in Yucatan in 1520.

William Powell and Annabella, as butler and Baroness, above, seem to have laid aside the formalities usually practiced between master and servant in favor of love. They appear at the West Coast today in "The Baroness and the Butler." "Manhattan Merry-Go-Round" is second gay offering with choice cast.

from one of Stuart Palmer's popular stories of inspector Oscar Piper and his feminine aide.

W. C. FIELDS HEADS COMICS

Lavishly produced, tuneful, sometimes mad and always gay, and boasting a cast of top-name screen and radio performers, Paramount brings "The Big Broadcast of 1938" to the Broadway screen beginning Thursday.

And, if "Mama Runs Wild," which will open as second feature, had been written for Mary Boland and Ernest Truex, expressly, it could not possibly have made the story more tailor-made for these two madcap comedians.

"The Big Broadcast of 1938" stars W. C. Fields, with Martha Raye, Dorothy Lamour, Shirley Ross, Ben Blue, Bob Hope, Lynne Overmire and Left Erikson. Several specialty entertainers also are offered. 'Tis the story of a ship-wrecked couple picked up by a liner, and the excitement, merriment and romance which follow their rescue, aboard ship.

Mary Boland, in "Mama Runs Wild" is a head-strong wife with a hen-pecked husband and a yen to become mayor of the city. How she's defeated, serves as vehicle for a laugh-a-minute. Max Terhune, ventriloquist, offers many an extra laugh.

TWO GAY FILMS CO-BILL TODAY

"The Baroness and the Butler" offers William Powell and Annabella on the West Coast screen now in a gay romance, while a wave of fun and music is offered as second feature, "Manhattan Merry-Go-Round," with Phil Regan, Ann Dvorak, Leo Carrillo, Tamara Geva, Henry Armetta, Ted Lewis, Jimmy Gleason and Cab Calloway.

In "The Baroness and the Butler," Annabella, in her first American-made picture, believes butlers are born to obey but Powell buyers such un-butler-like impulses! How he runs, successfully, for Parliament, while he "battles" for the Baroness forms the plot for a highly interesting and entertaining program in the usual debonair Powell manner.

In the cast, are Helen Westley, Henry Stephenson, Joseph Schildkraut, J. Edward Bromberg and Nigel Bruce.

Regan and Miss Dvorak score heavily as the young couple in love but separated by the demand of a gangster that Regan make love to a temperamental opera singer to secure her signature on a recording contract. How true love wins in the final denouement brings fun and plenty of inviting entertainment for film fans.

HEPBURN TRIUMPHS IN LATEST ROLE

Revealing Katherine Hepburn as the superb exponent of complete entertainment, "Bringing Up Baby" appears on the West Coast screen beginning Wednesday with "Double Danger," having as its theme the "gentleman burglar."

"Bringing Up Baby" is hilarious comedy of top quality and teams Cary Grant of "The Awful Truth" fame, with Miss Hepburn. May combine their talents with Miss Hepburn's genius for characterizations. The story deals with the meeting of a madcap girl and a quiet boy, the girl's immediate decision to kidnap the boy and marry him. Before the fun lets up, two leopards and a dog have joined the cast!

Preston Foster and Miss Whitney Bourne are the two suave crooks in "Double Danger," each pitting wits against the other, and both pitting wits against the world—until they are invited to visit a suspicious police commissioner's home and both commissioner and Dan Cupid begin their work. Samuel Lake and a good supporting cast are offered in the film.

WALKER BILL TO END "Beg, Borrow or Steal," comedy of a genial, likable schemer, "suckering" the tourist trade in France, and "Handy Andy," a Will Rogers picture brought back by popular request, double bill for the last times tonight at Walker's.

March of Time and news also are shown. In "Beg, Borrow or Steal" features Frank Morgan, Florence Rice, John Beal, Reginald Denny, George Givot and many other well-known screen players.
